Commission Opens Study of Alaska Road Project Here

Canadian Group Gathers Data On Big Highway Scheme

Aerial Survey Likely

The special commission appointed by the federal government to investigate the British Columbia - Yukon - Alaska Highway project began its inquiries at the Legislative Buildings here this morning under the chairmanship of Hon. Charles Stewart, former Minister of the Interior.

Premier T. D. Pattullo, chief Canadian advocate of the highway for the last two years, and F. C. Green, surveyor-general of B.C., appeared before the commission this morning. It will continue in session tomorrow, making preliminary studies before outlining further plans, Mr. Stewart said.

Proposals for an aerial survey of the region by engineers, a visit to northern B.C. by members of the commission, and a probable meeting with the American commission will likely be considered, the chairman said.

Sitting with Mr. Stewart, are Brigadier-General Thomas Tremblay, consulting engineer for the Quebec Harbors Board; J. M. Wardle, Director of Surveys for the Department of Mines and Resources; J. W. Spencer of Victoria and Arthur Dixon, Deputy Minister of Public Works for British Columbia.

The commission convened in the Liberal members' room where a large scale map of the province, the Yukon and Alaska was hung on the wall showing various alternative routes that have been suggested for the highway.

The two main routes lead from Hazelton along behind the coast mountains, and from Prince George by way of Finlay Forks.

The Hazelton route follows the Babine River and Sustut Rivers for some distance, then the Klappan River, cross the Stikine River, passes Dease Lake, rising to an altitude of 6,000 feet at one point, then passes the southern end of Tesyin Lake, to Atlin Lake, passes Atlin to Carcross in the Yukon, then to Whitehorse, Carmacks, Pelly Cross and the Stewart River to Dawson City.

The Prince George route follows along to Summit Lake, the Parsnip River, Finlay Forks, Fort Graham, Whitewater, through the Sifton Pass at 3,000 feet, skirts the Simpson mountains, follows the Francis River, then through the Arctic-Behring divide at 3,150 feet and follows th Pelly River to link with the other route before reaching Dawson.

Various by-passes and alternate pieces are shown in the map including a link with the head of navigation in the Peace River block.

Mr. Stewart made it clear at the outset the commission has no power to go ahead with any construction. Its duties are to investigate and report on the feasibility of the project and the probable cost.

Premier Pattullo outlined to the commission the history of negotiations leading up to the appointment of the board. He mentioned his own discussions with the Ottawa government and with President Roosevelt relative to co-operation between the U.S. and Canadian governments on the project.

Mr. Green, who has charge of geological and topographical surveys, gave evidence regarding the nature of the ground that will be covered by the road.

Mr. Stewart said he hoped the commission could arrange to visit Prince George, Hazelton and other points from which the road would lead.

The investigation will be carried on at a minimum of cost, he explained, and where possible government engineers will be used in surveys. With the exception of Mr. Spencer, the members of the commisison are all public officials.

Third of Each Dollar Collected Is For War

Canada's Peace-time Military Establishment Is No Longer a Joke

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

OTTAWA—Up to a century ago Canada was frequently a battlefield, but we have forgotten all that, secure behind two oceans and the 49th parallel of latitude. We have maintained no army to speak of, no air force and a toy navy. War preparations were no financial problem to us.

But history has back-tracked. Once more Canada is preparing to defend itself, as in the old days when every settler along the St. Lawrence was ready to take his shooting iron down from the wall if the red coats were coming.

Today for the first time since 1812, except during the four years of the Great War, Canada is spending real money on defence, on possible future war. This is something that most Canadians haven't realized yet—that Canada is no longer unique among the modern nations in its freedom from the financial burden of armament. They would have realized it yesterday if they had been in the House of Commons and listened to the hoarse voice of Ian Mackenzie tell the facts about our defence expenditures.

JOKE NO LONGER

As Mr. Mackenzie built up, point by point, dollar by dollar, a defence of his defence department, you began to see how Canada, hesitatingly and very late in the day, has been making itself a nation of military power. Up to now our peace time military establishment has been a joke, which Canadians never took very seriously. Now it is costing you, as a taxpayer, a pretty penny. It is a joke no longer.

You can read the details of Mr. Mackenzie's defence plans elsewhere, his new artillery, torpedo boats, airplanes—but in simpler terms all this means that out of every $100 the Canadian government spends during the present year about $12 will go on defences, a total of around $63,000,000. This, compared with the budgets of the military nations, is small change, but to Canada it is a heavy new burden, three times as heavy as it used to be a few years ago. And when you figure that the annual interest on the debt of the last war is about equal to the total defence expenditure of this year, and when you take in the $54,000,000 needed for war pensions and the medical treatment of returned men, you find that today war is one of the largest items in the Canadian budget. War, past and future, is costing us about $177,000,000 a year, which is about equal to our total expenditure on all branches of government in 1914. In other words, of every dollar the government collects 35 cents goes for war.

As Mr. Mackenzie was making his two-hour speech, a sober recital of facts and figures mostly read from official reports, some of us in the press gallery made a few of these rough calculations. We figured also that the current defence appropriations cost every man, woman and child in the country $5.73 a year. But if you add the cost of the last war you find that each Canadian is paying about $16 a year for the last war and for defence in case of another one. For all other costs of federal government he pays $29. So quite obviously war is no longer incidental with us.

What are we spending our defence money on? Against whom? Where? The answer is that we are spending it to defend Canada and Canada alone. Behind that statement lurks a complete change, not alone in military tactics, but in our national viewpoint. Up to Munich our whole thinking on war was so fuzzy that no government dared to announce a definite policy. Half the country seemed to believe that somehow we could keep out of a British war if it broke out.

PROFOUND CHANGE

Since then our national thought has undergone the most profound change in modern times. We are committed by our government and our political parties to participate in the next war if Britain is in it. Neutrality has been abandoned as utterly impossible. That being so, we are going to feel the effects of the next war, if its comes, sharply and immediately. Mr. Mackenzie made that perfectly clear in his speech.

There is no plan for a large expeditionary force as in the last war, but Canada will aid Britain by supplying it with foodstuffs and other raw materials in huge quantity. Britain's enemies certainly will try to stop the movement of these goods, which will become a military objective of first magnitude. That means the enemy will try to sink Canadian ships loaded with grain, metals and other supplies. He may well try to damage Canadian ports by raids. The Canadian defence plans do not contemplate seapower to defend ships in mid-ocean but they are intended to protect such harbors as Victoria, Vancouver and Halifax, and such waters as the St. Lawrence.

There is another danger. Canada is no longer invulnerable behind her oceans and her 49th parallel. Solemnly and without his usual passion, Mr. Mackenzie warned the House of Commons that if Russians could fly over the North Pole and across Canada and if British planes could fly from Egypt to Australia, further than the distance from middle Europe to midd' Canada, then obviously we can be attacked from the air. It is physically possible today, he said, for an enemy air fleet to leave middle Europe, bomb an industrial centre in eastern Canada and return home without stopping.

It took Mr. Mackenzie all afternoon reading laboriously until his voice had sunk to a Scottish whisper to tell in detail how he is trying to meet this danger, where he is spending his money, what he is getting for it.

This Parliament will want to know much more about our defences, as it should want to know, and opinions will differ on their efficiency. But no one can deny now that we are in the war business at last. We have been sucked by events into the world's current madness of spending on armament and the instruments of death when we cannot afford to spend on human life. And the end of this mounting bill for war is not yet.

See page 3 for details of Mr. Mackenzie's speech.

Office of Income Tax To Be Open

J. Slade Stevens of the Dominion income tax office announces that his office, 320 Post Office Building, will remain open for the convenience of the public until 5 p.m. Saturday, April 29, and until 6 p.m. Monday, May 1. After the last-mentioned date the imposition of penalties for late filing is mandatory.

NO BAR ON GRAIN FUTURE TRADING

OTTAWA (CP) — An amendment to the government's grain bill providing that nothing in the bill gives the Board of Grain Commissioners authority to close the Winnipeg grain futures market or limit futures trading was approved today by the Senate banking committee. The bill itself also was approved unanimously.

As originally worded, the clause would have given the board power to revoke any by-law of the exchange if the by-law operated injuriously to the public interest, thus enabling the board to close trading.

Isaac Pitblado, K.C., exchange counsel, objected to the clause at a committee sitting last week and after a consultation between Trade Minister Euler, the Board of Grain Commissioners and Mr. Pitblado the amendment was drafted.

Exception was taken to the amendment by R. H. Milliken, Regina, counsel for the wheat pools. He had seen the amendment only today and asked time be given him to examine its import before the Senate decided what to do with it.

C.P.R. Liner to Carry King and Queen to Canada

Premier Announces Empress of Australia To Replace Warship

Will Sail May 6

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today the King and Queen will travel to Canada and the United States aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia instead of the battlecruiser Repulse.

The liner is scheduled to leave Portsmouth May 6.

Mr. Chamberlain told the House the government had decided it would be preferable that the Repulse, originally selected for the trip, should not leave European waters because of the international tension.

The Empress of Australia was built in Germany in 1914 and when the Prime Minister made the announcement, Commander Arthur Marsden, Conservative, asked Mr. Chamberlain why a British ship had not been selected.

The Prime Minister answered:

"In the circumstances we have had to take what liner was available, but perhaps it will be some consolation to the honorable member to know that the engines (of the Empress of Australia) were built in Glasgow."

SUGGESTED BY KING

It was stated authoritatively the King made the original suggestion that the Repulse, which had been reconstructed for the Royal voyage, should be kept at home.

The Repulse is one of only three British battlecruisers capable of catching and destroying German pocket battleships such as those now in Spanish waters. The other two, the Hood and the Renown, are laid up for repairs in naval dockyards.

From official sources, it was learned the King and Queen will proceed with their plans to make the trip unless the general European situation takes an alarming turn.

See Empress of Australia story on page 16.

Favor Completion Of Rail Terminal

Commons Committee for Going On With C.N.R. Station in Montreal

OTTAWA (CP)—Work on the Canadian National Railways terminal in Montreal should be proceeded with until the project is completed, the Commons railways and shipping committee recommended in its final report made public today.

At several sittings the committee heard witnesses testify regarding the necessity of the terminal and others urged the use of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Windsor Street station as a union terminal. Approximately $16,000,000 has been spent on the terminal and it is planned to spend $12,600,000 in the next four or five years.

The committee found it in the best interests of both the public and the C.N.R. that the work should be continued. Last session it reported the work should receive further consideration.

"Construction has now been resumed, but on a substantially modified plan from that originally decided on," the report said.

Russia Ready To Assist Against Aggression

Ambassador Maisky, Returning to London, Says Course Clear

Bloc Encouraged

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador to Great Britain, returning from important conversations in Moscow, said today Russia would "assist Europe in case of aggression."

Arriving here by airplane, Maisky said at the airport:

"I return very content. Russia's position in a possible conflict is perfectly clear. We are going to assist Europe in case of aggression."

Maisky's remarks were regarded as strong indication of progress in Anglo-French efforts to enlist Russia fully in the "Stop Hitler" front.

Maisky left London April 18 for urgent conversations in Moscow on a British - proposed Anglo-Russia-French air alliance.

Russia countered with a proposal for a general defensive pact against aggression. Negotiations on this still are proceeding in Moscow.

POLAND TO RESIST DANZIG ANNEXATION

Press Declaration Precedes Hitler's Speech; British Move Hailed

WARSAW (AP)—The expectation that Chancellor Hitler would discuss Polish-German relations in tomorrow's Reichstag speech brought press declarations today that Poland would resist any attempt to annex the Free City of Danzig.

At the same time newspapers proclaimed the historic significance of Britain's adoption of conscription.

Both sides agreed Poland would accept no arrangements regarding Danzig without her free consent.

The government press declared its belief that settlement was still possible "if Germany is reasonable."

The nationalistic opposition, on the other hand, declared such hopes were useless and called on the government to abandon "such dangerous illusions."

Danzig, under League of Nations protection, is former German territory and within the Polish customs administration.

Germany's demands on Poland, presented some weeks ago and never withdrawn, stood thus on the eve of the Fuehrer's address:

Polish renunciation of all claims concerning Danzig and acquiescence in the incorporation of the Free City in Hitler's expanding Reich; agreement to Germany's building a motor highway under German sovereignty across the Polish Corridor, linking Germany proper and East Prussia; German control of the strategic railway centre of Bogumin, now under Polish control.

Poland's answer has been to mobilize enough men to put 1,300,000 soldiers on her frontiers.

Conscription Plan Voted By Parliament of Britain

Commons By 376-145 Quickly Endorses Law For Men 20 to 21

Lords Also Approve

By J. F. SANDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons approved the government's proposal to introduce conscription in Britain by defeating an opposition labor amendment tonight by a vote of 280 to 143.

The vote amounted to an expression of confidence in the government of Prime Minister Chamberlain, for the Labor amendment, if adopted, would have forced a general election on the conscription issue.

The Commons then quickly adopted the government's motion to introduce conscription by a vote 376 to 145.

Earlier in the day the House of Lords had agreed to the government's resolution without a recorded vote and then adjourned.

The Commons adjourned at 11.25 p.m., after debate which had proved to be less bitter than expected.

Opening the debate in the afternoon in the Commons, Prime Minister Chamberlain said introduction of conscription had become necessary to safeguard Great Britain and to reassure her European allies she meant business in taking the lead against aggression.

He said it was of "national importance" for Parliament to decide tonight on the principle involved, a remark which indicated the government was considering the move in relation to Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech tomorrow.

Mr. Chamberlain told the Commons that in view of Britain's liabilities to France, Roumania, Poland and Greece, and the decidedly tense general European situation, it was imperative to kill the gibe being circulated throughout the world that "Britain is willing to fight to the last Frenchman."

UNITY ASKED

He appealed to the Labor Party to show a united front to the world on this radical change in British policy, which would conscript an estimated 200,000 men at the age of 20 for six months of military training.

Clement Attlee, Labor opposition leader, declared the government's conscription decision was a gesture "throwing a monkey wrench into the machine." The Labor Party opposed conscription because it believed it would weaken and divide the country instead of uniting it.

Conscription of wealth would have been a much more effective gesture, Mr. Attlee said.

ELECTION DANGEROUS

The Prime Minister said he foresaw that the Labor Party might push things to the point where he would be compelled to call an election, and added: "But surely a very heavy responsibility would rest on those who force such a conclusion at this time."

Cheers came from the Labor benches when Mr. Chamberlain spoke of an election. There were counter cheers from the government side.

"I do not want to give the idea that I think war is imminent," the Prime Minister said. "I don't. But I do think we are in a condition when a very little weight one way or another might decide whether war is going to come or not."

The Prime Minister warned the world in general not to undervalue "this great departure by this country from one of its most cherished traditions."

The Prime Minister said that if his conscription statement had been delayed until next week, any decision taken would have been related to Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech.

"We have no information as to what the contents of that speech may be; our proposals are quite independent of it and that should be made perfectly clear to all the world," said Mr. Chamberlain.

War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha, who wound up the debate for the government, declared "we have no intention of introducing conscription of labor."

He replied to arguments of opposition labor leaders who contended compulsory military training for 20-year-old men would be an entering wedge for industrial conscription.

Questions For Hitler

WASHINGTON (AP)—The belief was growing in diplomatic circles today that President Roosevelt might address further peace queries to Chancellor Hitler if the German leader leaves the door open tomorrow in his Reichstag speech.

Mr. Roosevelt's April 15 appeal was that Hitler and Mussolini pledge 10 to 25 years of non-aggression against 31 nations. In return for such a promise, the President proposed calling world economic and disarmament conferences.

If Hitler makes counter-demands or does not reject flatly the conference idea, it was considered probable by many well-informed person here that Mr. Roosevelt would seek a concrete expression on these points.

British Veterans Re-enlist

LONDON (CP)—Fresh measures to prepare Great Britain for "anything" followed today in the wake of the conscription announcement.

Former servicemen between the ages of 45 and 51 years invited to enlist in home defence companies, which will be raised as part of the territorial army, the body that corresponds to the Canadian militia. The veterans will not be sent abroad in event of war, but will be asked to serve for an initial period of four years.

Many of Britain's conscripts will be attached to anti-aircraft gun units which, as Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons yesterday, are being manned around the clock "through the period of uneasiness."

Exchange Up As Speech Awaited

NEW YORK (AP)—A "money market" clue that Chancellor Hitler's reply tomorrow to President Roosevelt's plea for peace assurances might be "conciliatory in tone" was seen in banking quarters today in a sharp jump of about one-tenth of a cent in the Netherlands guilder in terms of the United States dollar in New York foreign exchange dealings.

The currency, at around 53.34 cents, reflected an earlier steep rise in London, where speculators with short positions clamored for guilders to cover commitments.

ROOSEVELT DRAFTS SPEECH FOR FAIR

Remarks for New York Event Prepared Before Hitler's Statement Known

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Without waiting for Chancellor Hitler's reply tomorrow to his nonaggression message, President Roosevelt went to work today on the address he will deliver Sunday opening the New York World's Fair.

The President arrived at his boyhood home from Washington for a week's stay and a week-end reception to royal visitors from Norway and Denmark.

It also was announced officially there was "grave doubt" whether Mr. Roosevelt would interrupt his sleep early tomorrow to listen to Hitler's address to the Reichstag. The President earlier had told others he would not get up for it.

The fact the President began writing his New York speech, to be made shortly after 10.30 a.m. P.S.T. Sunday, before learning what the Nazi chieftain had to say, indicated to some aides he would not attempt to comment on Hitler's reply, but would weigh the latter's words carefully before making known any official reaction.

Others pointed out he could insert a reference to the Hitler speech after finishing his manuscript.

Roosevelt Wants Reply in Writing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt will refuse to consider Hitler's public speech tomorrow as a reply to his peace appeal address to the German leader.

High quarters indicated today the President would expect a written reply to his written appeal.

Consequently, there will be no official comment tomorrow on Hitler's speech.

NAZIS DISCOUNT BRITISH MOVE

Conscription Plans Mocked By Press As Political Tactics

BERLIN (AP)—Nazis are discounting Great Britain's conscription measure as a political move intended to frighten Germany.

The attitude of the controlled newspapers today was that Britain may arm up to the neck if she wishes. Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels wrote a lengthy article in Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter attacking Britain's policy of a balance of power in Europe, and declaring:

"Germany is no English protectorate, and the English would do well to conduct their dealings with us in the way in which dealings with a big power are generally conducted."

TO USE UMBRELLAS

A spokesman commenting on Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech on conscription made the sarcastic comment, "You probably can train men to use umbrellas in six months, but you cannot train them for modern warfare within that time."

The Berliner Lokal Anzeiger termed the measure, "a political and agitating action of the Chamberlain encirclement cabinet." Continuing, the paper said: "England may arm up to the neck, she may call in all her lords and all her stock jobbers. . . All this will leave us cold. We do not want to attack England, and that England cannot attack us, despite Anthony Eden, Winston Churchill and other preventive warriors, the Fuehrer has taken care."

DE VALERA ENDS PLAN TO VISIT U.S.

Trip to New York Canceled Because Of 'Grave Events'

DUBLIN (AP) — Prime Minister Eamon de Valera announced in the Dail today he had canceled his trip to the United States on which he was to have left Saturday.

Mr. de Valera said the reason for his decision was "yesterday's grave event"—an apparent reference to Great Britain's adoption of conscription.

The Prime Minister was to have opened the Eire pavilion at the New York World's Fair and was expected also to visit President Roosevelt in Washington.

Conscription Opposed

LONDON (CP-Havas) — The National Council of Labor today unanimously approved the parliamentary Labor Party's amendment denouncing the government's conscription bill

Pilot Boat Sunk Off New York in Crash With Ms. Oslofjord

NEW YORK (AP) — The Norwegian motorship Oslofjord, bearing Crown Prince Olaf and Princess Martha of Norway, and the pilot boat Sandy Hook collided off the Ambrose Lightship early today. The Sandy Hook sank.

The crash occurred 12 miles out of New York Harbor in a fog which had forced all shipping to anchor overnight outside the channel.

The Sandy Hook, a 175-foot craft, went down while attempting to reach shore. Information was that the Oslofjord was not seriously damaged.

The pilot boat's crew was picked up by nearby boats. No one was lost or injured.

Prince Olaf and his wife were coming to the United Itates for a 10-week visit.

Apparently no one aboard the Norwegian liner was hurt.

The Oslofjord is of 18,675 gross tons and 20,000 displacement.

Several Norwegians prominent in the business, arts and shipping of their country crossed the Atlantic in the Oslofjord.

Elaborate arangements made for the Royal Visitors were indefinitely delayed by the accident.

British Vital Job List Cut

Move Frees 1,500,000 In Reserved Occupations For Military Service

LONDON (AP)—In its newest measure to provide for expanding the army, the government today dropped about 1,500,000 men from the reserved occupations list of holders of jobs of great national importance.

Of the men dropped from that list, 630,000 are under the age of 38, and could qualify for the field force of the territorial army. Others will be able to join the anti-aircraft and coastal batteries.

Mr. Chamberlain yesterday told the Commons the government's decision "to introduce as soon as possible a system of compulsory military training" would affect about 310,000 men annually.

While he estimated that number would fall within the conscription age, those between their 20th and 21st birthdays, he acknowledged the number would be reduced "very considerably" by certain deductions.

Unofficial sources said these deductions would include exemptions for physical disability and for workers in defence industries. One unofficial estimate of the first class to be summoned for the projected six-month training was 200,000 men.

With such an auxiliary force and the Territorial Army now being raised from 250,000 to 340,000, and counting the total establishment of the regular army—about 227,000 at home and abroad — Britain would have about 767,000 men under arms.

The conscription announcement precipitated a rush to join the "Terriers" (Territorial Army). This greatly benefitted the Territorial Army recruiting drive started March 30.

Youths of conscription age crowded enrollment offices last night until officials in many places had to post "full-up" signs outside. It had been announced any 20-year-old could join the "Terriers" up to midnight.

By volunteering in the Territorial Army these youths escaped the projected six months of concentrated training for the period of their three and one-half years' enlistment.

"AA" (anti-aircraft) men throughout the country had been placed on 24-hour duty, manning every anti-aircraft gun and searchlight. The Royal Air Force had assigned night patrols to the east coast.

Geoffrey H. Shakespeare, Admiralty Under-secretary, disclosed in the House of Commons yesterday "about 3,000" seamen aboard British merchant ships would have received gunnery training within 12 months. The courses were started last month at eight British ports.

Pledge Against War Profiteering

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain in the Commons today gave this pledge to the opposition:

"In the view of the government, if war ever did come again, we feel that taxes on the very wealthy, which are already very high, must be further and substantially increased.

"We feel that profiteering in war time, whenever it can be established, should be subjected to severe penalties.

"We intend that a system shall be introduced to deal with all profits arising out of war and not merely with profits out of armaments."

EDMONTON—Alberta public utilities commission yesterday issued an order authorizing Northwestern Utilities Limited to refund its bonded indebtedness of $2,500,000. An annual interest saving of $35,000 is expected by the company under the plan.

WINDSOR ENDORSES PEACE TALK PLEA

Catholic Paper's Appeal Receives Ex-King's Backing

LONDON (CP)—The Duke of Windsor joined today in endorsing an appeal by the London newspaper, Catholic Herald, for a world-wide peace conference "to save the world from the catastrophe of war before it is too late."

A letter from the Duke's secretary to the newspaper said, "As a Protestant by faith and free from all official ties, the Duke is confident that by a frank exposition of the thoughts and feelings of mankind today, and the honesty of the points used to emphasize the vital necessity not only of avoiding war now but to end this prolonged period of tension, this Catholic appeal cannot fail to commend itself to many millions, irrespective of creed, race or political doctrines."

The Herald issued the appeal to 350,000,000 Roman Catholics throughout the world and "to all men of good will."

$1,447,000,000 FOR U.S. RELIEF ASKED

Roosevelt Says Figure For Next Year Based On More Employment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt asked the United States Congress today for a relief appropriation of $1,447,000,000 for the 12 months beginning next July 1.

In a message saying substantial gains were being made in the drive to reduce unemployment, Mr. Roosevelt said his recommended figure for the next fiscal year represented a reduction of one-third below the approximately $2,250,000,000 he said was appropriated for the current year.

He said $1,447,000,000 would permit employment of "slightly more than an average of 2,000,000 persons" during the next year.

"Barring unforeseen and unpredictable developments," the President told Congres "we are justified in expecting an upward trend in the volume of employment between now and June 30, 1940, and the sum just named represents my judgment as to the amount that should be provided on the basis of the expectation."

With this appropriation Mr. Roosevelt asked any unexpended balances left to the Works Progress Administration out of its current funds be reallocated for use in the coming 12 months.

AGAINST BIG CHANGES

The President came out against any major changes in the Works Progress Administration set-up, other than those administrative revisions which he outlined in his "reorganization plan number one," submitted to Congress earlier this week.

Mr. Roosevelt reaffirmed his stand against payment of doles as a substitute for wages paid to relief workers and also flatly stated opposition to any system of relief grants by the federal government to the States. Such grants have been advocated by many Republicans and other congressional critics of the present relief set-up.

3 Nations' Warships Visit Tangier

GIBRALTAR (AP)—Ships of the German, British and French fleets in the Mediterranean arrived at Tangier, international zone of Morocco, today.

The cruiser Leipzig, heading the German fleet on its cruise in Spanish waters, arrived from Cadiz. Thirty minutes later, the British destroyer Grafton and the French destroyer Volta, Mogador and Forbin put in at Tangier.

The German cruiser Koln visited Algeciras, arriving from the east and firing a salute as it entered the harbor. A German destroyer entered Ceuta harbor.

The British battleships Ramillies and Valiant and the destroyer Active left Gibraltar and headed westward.

South Africa Recruits

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP)—A national register to determine the Union's man-power was started today by the South African Department of Defence. Brig.-Gen. J. J. Collyer was appointed director-general of reserves. All men under 45 are affected.

NO ROUMANIAN MUTUAL PACTS

Britain and France Reported Told Pledges Not To Be Given Yet

PARIS (AP)—Roumania was reported today to have advised Great Britain and France of her opposition to entering mutual assistance pacts with them at least for the present.

This development was reported as Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet conferred with Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador in Paris, before the Frenchman started conferences with Grigore Gafencu, Roumanian Foreign Minister.

It was understood in diplomatic circles the British envoy had brought the report that Gafencu, in his earlier talks in London, had expressed Roumania's opposition to immediate entry into mutual assistance pacts.

Britain and France already have pledged their aid to Roumania in the event her independence is attacked, but it is a one-way pledge which they would like to make reciprocal.

French circles in close touch with international affairs said Prime Minister Chamberlain's announcement of the conscription measure was largely of "psychological value" on the event of Chancellor Hitler's answer to President Roosevelt's appeal for peace.

Nevertheless, they said, the British action would precipitate a definite showing of hands in the Balkans and eastern Europe—either for Britain and France or for Germany and Italy. These circles said they believed Roumania, Greece, Turkey and Russia eventually would come into an Anglo-French pact pledging resistance to any aggression.

The positions of Jugoslavia and Bulgaria were considered uncertain here, the former because she is hemmed in by Italy and Germany and the latter because she has territorial grievances with Roumania as well as other Balkan powers.

CONSCRIPTION SEEN AS INTIMIDATION

Italian Writer Says Axis Powers Not Impressed By Britain

ROME (AP)—Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, asserted today that Great Britain's conscription decision was an attempt at "intimidation" of Italy and Germany, but that the axis powers were not impressed.

He hinted that Rome and Berlin would counter with some "equivalent" move.

Gayda, writing in Il Giornale d'Italia, after outlining the new military strength which conscription would give Britain, said:

"It would be an exaggeration, however, to say this creates a decisive displacement of the forces of the two camps.

"Italy and Germany are not seeking war, but are ready today, as yesterday, to sustain it if it is imposed by violence and intolerable injustices.'

Nanaimo Singer In Festival Finals

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Dodds, adjudicating morning sessions at the 17th annual British Columbia Musical Festival today selected Adele Dunsmore of Nanaimo to sing in finals of the girls vocal class for high voice tonight. Other finalists are Patricia Kerr and Audrey Gabe, Vancouver.

Seventeen singers, all of whom received high marks, competed in this class, including Ninon Huston, Ladysmith.

Blasts in Japanese Mines Kill 22

YUBARI, Japan (AP)—Gas explosions in the Ubari and Ishikari coal mines Thursday were believed to have killed 22 minters. Forty-five men were injured, 36 of them seriously.

Rescue crews removed 17 bodies during the night and five men still were missing and believed dead.

A number of miners scrambled to safety, but 171 were trapped. They finally were released by rescue crews.

The death toll in another explosion in a large coal mine at Fushun, Manchukuo, reported Wednesday, was placed at 30.

Nazis Prepare for Hitler's Speech

BERLIN (AP)—Nazis prepared today to give a lavish reception to Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech tomorrow.

Arrangements were being made to ensure that every German would be able to hear by radio the Fuehrer answer President Roosevelt's proposal for nonaggression guarantees.

The Opera House, scene of the speech, was given a decorating "worthy of the occasion." The Reich's stage decorator, Benno von Arent, had been entrusted with the task. Walls of greenery shroud the whole building and from a background for huge black Swastika flags.

Russian-Turkish Talks

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Vladimir Potemkin, vice-commissar of foreign affairs of Soviet Russia, arrived today for diplomatic talks with Turkish government officials.

JAPAN INFORMS ENVOYS OF POLICY

Ambassadors Reported Asked for Opinion On Strengthened Pact

TOKIO (CP-Havas)—The Japanese government's decisions as to its foreign policy in the present international situation were reported communicated Thursday to the Japanese ambassadors in Germany, Italy, the Soviet Union and Great Britain.

It was understood that in his cables abroad Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita asked the ambassadors for their opinion of the provisional draft of a strengthened "Anti-Comintern" pact.

The press began open speculation as to the direction of Japan's policy. The Miyako Shimbun said it had reason to believe the general orientation was:

1. To reinforce the anti-Comintern pact.

2. To maintain an independent line of conduct in the Far East whatever the international developments.

3. To resist the pressure of third powers.

The paper said Japan would not let itself be drawn into a European war.

Murderer Overlooks $1,440

REDDING, Calif. (AP)—D. E. S. Branstetter, 87, was slain in a robbery, officers theorized today, but his assailant overlooked $1,440 in bills and apparently only took a coin purse containing about $15 and a watch. Branstetter's body was found in his homestead cabin 30 miles north of here last night.

Gen. Marshall To Be U.S. Army Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt nominated Brigadier-General George Catlett Marshall today to replace General Malin Craig as chief of staff of the army. Gen. Marshall was commandant at Vancouver Barracks, Wash., at one time.

Gen. Craig is slated for retirement August 31.

To be surgeon-general with the rank of major-general, President Roosevelt nominated Col. James Carre Magee to replace Surgeon-General Reynolds, whose term will expire May 31.

Gen. Marshall, 58, will rank among the youngest ever to attain the post. His selection meant Mr. Roosevelt passed over several officers who were his senior in service.

Status of Irishmen

LONDON (CP)—J. W. Dulanty, High Commissioner for Eire, saw Prime Minister Chamberlain this morning and is understood to have discussed the status of Irishmen living in Britain under the conscription measure.

Sixteen Killed in Japan Mine Blasts; 150 Trapped

YUBARI, Japan (AP) — A double gas explosion in Yubari and Ishkari coal mines killed at least 16 and injured 26, police of Hokkaido Island announced Thursday.

There were about 150 missing. They were believed trapped by the explosions.

The death toll in another explosion in a large coal mine at Fusnun, Manchukuo, reported Wednesday, was placed at 30.

Implement Inquiry Discussion

OTTAWA (CP)—No application for an investigation under the Combines Investigation Act into farm implement prices and distribution in Saskatchewan has been received by the Federal Government, W. A. Tucker, Liberal, Rosthern, was informed in answer to a question in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

Embargo Petition

OTTAWA (CP) — A petition signed by "several hundred citizens" urging an embargo on shipment of war materials to Japan, Italy and Germany was placed before the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by Dr. A. M. Young, Liberal, Saskatoon.

Canada's Defences Stated

Hon. Ian Mackenzie Reveals Extent of Arms, Service Forces, With Government's Aims

OTTAWA (CP) — Long-range plans for developing an air force as Canada's first line of defence were laid before the House of Commons yesterday by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie as he introduced the 1939-40 defence estimates totaling $63,000,000.

Feature of the scheme is a $6,000,000 pilot-training program under which 50 British fliers a year will be trained here, and Canadians will be qualified for a new four-year "short service commission" in the Royal Canadian Air Force, with six years in the air force reserve.

The training program, which will require instructional and maintenace staff of 68 officers and 600 airmen and 93 training aircraft, will train 126 pilots a year. Elementary training will be provided at civilian schools and flying clubs, intermediate training at Camp Borden, Ont., and most of the advanced instruction at Trenton, Ont.

The short-term officers will, on completion of their four years' service, be given $1,500 and assistance in re-establishing themselves, in addition to 5 per cent of their salary held back. The ultimate aim will be to create an air defence personnel, half on a permanent basis, half non-permanent.

Short-service officers will be recruited for a period of four years and graduation from the Royal Military College or a university will not be required for admission as is the case with permanent officers.

OPPORTUNITY FOR CLUBS

Flying clubs, the minister said, would now be assigned a definite role in air force training. Arrangements had been made with the Flying Clubs Association under which these organizations would provide elementary instruction for pilots. This would leave more room in the air force establishments for the men receiving more advanced training. Clubs would be paid on the basis of flying hours for each officer who completed his training and compensation would also be given for lectures and instruction in ground subjects.

Discussing general defence policy, Mr. Mackenzie said Canada should be prepared to defend by force if necessary:

"1. Our religion, our freedom, our institutions.

"2. Our coasts and coastal regions, our centres of population and industry, our main ports and the focal sea areas where trade routes converge in the vicinity of our main ports.

"3. Our neutrality in war in which Canada is not a belligerent.

"4. Internal order."

Large scale attacks by enemy forces on coasts and trade were out of the question because of the distance from bases, the world political situation and the existence of the British navy on the Atlantic and the United States navy on the Pacific, said the minister.

MINOR RAIDS LIKELY

Minor raids, however, were not only a possibility, but a probability, and Canada's responsibility for protection of trade was limited to Canadian ports and the short distance outside the ports extending to the main trade routes which were policed by the navies of Great Britain and the United States.

"It has been suggested we have nothing to show for our expenditures on national defence," said Mr. Mackenzie. "That, I say, is a thoughtless, unfair and somewhat harmful statement."

Some might say the government was spending too much in view of what was being done to better conditions of the people, but it was impossible to have social security without national security. Some might say the government was spending too little, and while this statement might be fair, it should be remembered the government had progressed far from the stage at which it started.

Canada's defence effort was limited because it was based on two assumptions, said Mr. Mackenzie, namely, that there would be no war with the United States and that Canada would not single-handed, engage in war with any overseas power. A century of good relations with the United States had left Canada without fear of attack, but the modern airplane had changed things.

DEFENCE PLANS

"After a century of immunity Canada is today again vulnerable to enemy hostilities," he said, "and has to cope with a real problem of national defence just as in the early years of its history."

In event of an international war it would be necessary for Canada to:

1. Maintain a ceaseless patrol of lines of approach for attacking forces.

2. Defend seaports, terminals, shipping and overseas trade in the vicinity of ports.

3. Prevent the utilization by any belligerent of Canadian territory, territorial waters and air for an attack on an allied or friendly nation.

Since taking office the government had added four destroyers, one training schooner and four minesweepers to the Canadian navy, had obtained four three-inch anti-aircraft guns, had three heavy coast guns relined, spent $153,000 on gas-mask equipment and enlarged the stores of all classes of ammunition.

AIRCRAFT STRENGTH

The present strength of the air force, he said, was 210 planes, including 30 modern service craft, 16 obsolete service and 158 trainer and civil type planes. There were 109 machines on order. On delivery of these, and after scrapping 69 machines, the force would have 250 aircraft, including 112 first-line service types and 138 training and survey types.

The objective was 11 permanent and 12 nonpermanent air force squadrons, which would mean 527 aircraft, 525 officers and 4,500 airmen in the permanent force, 220 officers and 2,014 airmen in the nonpermanent.

The strength of the permanent force this year would be 273 officers and 2,172 airmen. Machines to be purchased this year were listed as: Four flying boats, 6 army co-operation planes, 12 general purpose twin-engines, 10 new type bombers single-engine, 14 fighters, 18 bombers twin-engine, 4 advance trainers and 15 observation planes.

In the naval service, personnel would be increased this year by 384 and a flotilla leader would be purchased at a cost of $820,000. The fishermen's reserve established on the British Columbia coast last year would be extended to the Atlantic Coast. A new unit called the Royal Canadian Fleet reserve would be created in which ex-members of the Royal Canadian Navy would be enlisted for a period of five years.

During the year plans would be drawn up for building in Canada anti-submarine vessels, motor torpedo boats and a training schooner for the Pacific Coast. Experience gained already in constructing minesweepers in Canadian shipyards would be utilized.

For the land forces it was hoped to obtain additional weapons and ammunition. The objective in this regard was: 12 heavy coast guns, 9 mountings for heavy coast guns, 4 medium guns, 3 mountings for medium guns, 6 light quick-firing guns, 123 anti-aircraft guns, 544 infantry mortars, 60 medium howitzer equipments, 20 medium gun equipments, 500 field gun equipments, 348 anti-tank guns.

Stirling Urges More Militia Aid

Conservative Defence Policy Was Guided By Disarmament

OTTAWA (CP) — Leading off the Opposition's reply in the defence debate in the House of Commons yesterday, Hon. Grote Stirling, Conservative member for Yale, B.C. and former Minister of National Defence, said Canada's position today was entirely different from that at any other period of her history.

He recalled how Canada, along with other countries in the League of Nations, had carried on a policy of defence retrenchment in pursuit of peace until 1934. In that year it became evident to Canada and the rest of the peace-seeking world that one of the great nations intended to go back on its word and throw off the shackles of the Versailles Treaty.

One reason above all others that Canada's defence condition was so different today was the passing of the Statute of Westminster, under which Canada said to the world it would stand on its own feet. There were whisperings in the background that Canada would have to defend itself.

EFFICIENT FORCES

The previous administration barely maintained the navy and militia service, while retrenchment was in order in the air force, he said. When the present minister took over, he properly had a survey of defence facilities made and proceeded to remedy them as he could.

The question now was whether those facilities were sufficient. Canada had a small, highly efficient navy. Its permanent force was small but extremely efficient.

Mr. Stirling regretted no increase had been provided this year for the permanent force. The ordnance branch was badly undermanned. He regretted, too, no increase had been provided for the non permanent militia.

"As long as we look on the nonpermanent active militia as the backbone of our national defence, it is necessary to increase drastically the amount we are ready to give militia units," he said. More recognition for those units was equally essential, because it would be those units which would be expanded to defend Canada if need were to come.

German Flies Plane 469 Miles an Hour

AUGSBERG, Germany (AP) — Germany claimed today to have the world's fastest airplane in a Messerschmidt pursuit ship which yesterday covered a test course at an average speed of 755.11 kilometres (469.2 miles) an hour.

The pilot was 24-year-old Fritz Wendel. Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering promoted Wendel to the rank of captain in recognition of his achievement.

His speed bettered the mark of Capt. Hans Dieterle, who last March 31 flew a one-seater Heinkel pursuit plane at an average speed of 746.66 kilometres (463.9 miles) an hour.

Two Convicted of Kidnapping

YUBA CITY, Calif. (CP) — Robert and Ollen Grimes, fruit pickers from Kentucky, were found guilty by a jury last night of kidnapping Mrs. Norma Meeks, Rio Oso housewife, last September 1. They will be sentenced Monday.

The Grimes brothers were charged with holding Mrs. Meeks captive two days in an open-air hideout, before abandoning her after an attempt to extort $15,000 ransom from her husband, William R. Meeks.

TRIBUTE PAID SIR LYMAN DUFF

But Senators Hope Extension of Term Will Not Be Precedent

OTTAWA (CP)—Hopes the retention of the Chief Justice of Canada, Sir Lyman P. Duff, in office for three years following his attainment of the retiring age of 75 would not be accepted by the government as a precedent were voiced in the Senate yesterday when the Upper House debated the bill extending the Chief Justice's term.

Senator Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, stressed that in agreeing to continue as chief justice, Sir Lyman was doing a service to the government. His remuneration while in office was no larger than the superannuation he would have received had he retired, and from the standpoint of economy the government was actually saving money in giving effect to the present bill.

Senator Raoual Dandurand, government leader, endorsed the tribute which the Justice Minister, Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, had paid the chief justice when the bill was before the House of Commons.

Senator Meighen said it was true the bill created a precedent, but he was doubtful if any real difficulty would develop.

Sir Allen Aylesworth, Liberal, Ontario, asked what would be the result of this measure but continual discrimination between one juge and another, at the age of 75. He envisaged the possibility of future governments introducing similar measures for particular judges." "This seems to me to be a threat against the independence of the bench, making the bench of the future simply retain their positions at the will of the government of the day."

BELFAST (CP)—"We are part of the United Kingdom and would in a matter of that kind naturally fall into line with the rest of the country," Viscount Craigavon, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, declared in commenting on the decision of the British cabinet to adopt conscription.

"No special legislation will be required," he said, "but legislation might be required later on to round off certain points that are applicable to Northern Ireland."

Ancient Dart Found

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —A flint dart point, its age estimated at from 10,000 to 25,000 years, was turned up in a Sandia Mountains cave yesterday by student archaeologists of the University of New Mexico.

The discovery indicates, according to Dr. Frank Hibben of the University Museum, that prehistoric men lived and possibly thrived in the mountains at a time when American elephants, the ground sloth and the extinct American horse and camel were grazing the middle Rio Grande Valley.

U.S. PLANTS RUSH AIRPLANE ORDERS

Work Started Today For Army On First Of 3,000 Machines

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifteen weeks after President Roosevelt asked Congress to triple the United States army air force, five factories started work today on the first of more than 3,000 new planes.

A single order for 571 aircraft, much the largest the war department ever placed in peacetime, initiated the vast expansion of aerial strength which Congress authorized as the key feature of the $552,000,000 national defence program.

To start work on 12 new naval air bases, President Roosevelt yesterday asked $31,621,000. Other pending defence measures include the civil aeronautics authority's plan to train 20,000 pilots annually in colleges and a bill to authorize storing of strategic minerals.

Toscanini Crushed By Crowd Greeting Tracy

LONDON (AP) — Arturo Toscanini, the symphony maestro, was swept off his feet and flung against a baggage truck on Waterloo station platform last night by a crowd in its eagerness to catch a glimpse of Spencer Tracy, the film actor, who was arriving on a boat train.

The conductor escaped injury. The train was backed out of the station to avoid the crush and the Hollywood star and Mrs. Tracy got off at another station.

$200,000 JUDGMENT IN CHURCH CASE

Creditors in Quebec Parish Drop Action And Loan Settled

MONTREAL (CP) — Superior court actions against Roman Catholic authorities here were dropped yesterday by six creditors who later received judgment against the Parish of St. Etienne for more than $200,000 which they claimed in connection with a bond issue.

The judgment ended a lengthy court action in which the creditors, later excommunicated by the church, sued Archbishop Georges Gauthier, the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Montreal and the parish for $261,993, which they contended was owing from a loan contracted by a former priest of the parish without proper authority.

The excommunication decree, issued by Vatican authorities, resulted because the creditors had failed to obtain the expressed permission of church officials before proceeding with their action.

The judgment was accorded by Mr. Justice L. Demers with the consent of trustees of the parish, and without costs.

The creditors, who took action on behalf of 81 note holders of the parish, were: Albert Desjardins, Adoris Paquette, Alfred L'Archeveque, Lyall Huet, Edouard Pharon and H. N. Bardeleau. Bordeleau dropped his action against the church authorities last January when it was announced excommunication would automatically follow continuance of the proceedings.

J. H. Michaud, counsel for the plaintiffs, told the judge the reason his clients withdrew their actions was because of "their desire to remain in the union of the church to which they have never ceased to belong."

Veteran Chinese Buried

NEWEST TRACTOR CHANGES FARMING

Ford Expects It Will Take Minds of People Off War

DETROIT (AP) — In a large plant where during the Great War Henry Ford manufactured submarine chasers, he has begun production of a new farm tractor he believes not only will revolutionize agriculture but will "take the minds of the people off war."

Although he has manufactured 900,000 tractors, Mr. Ford confesses failure in his efforts to introduce mechanized farming, but today he declared that with the adoption of a principle developed by Harry Ferguson of Ireland "power farming is really here."

"We can now tackle mechanized farming from a new angle," he said. "Instead of a tractor weighing about 3,000 pounds, we expect ours to come out at about 1,700 pounds, and we are working to produce even lighter metals to reduce that weight."

The tractor, he said, "dispenses entirely with wheeled implements and in the case of the plough it uses a principle which pulls the plough point into the ground instead of out of the ground. In striking an obstruction in the field there can be no rearing of the front of tractor."

This great hope, he said, is that the mechanized farm will so engage the attention of the younger generation they will have no time to think of war.

"I don't believe there will be another world war," he said, "because there are people in the world who believe in producing things instead of destroying them."

A Grave Issue

PUBLIC OPINION IN GREAT BRITAIN obviously will be divided on the government's proposal to institute a comparatively mild form of military service. The Prime Minister's formal resolution will naturally provoke a spirited debate in the House of Commons—the House of Lords approved it without a recorded vote—but it is fairly safe to say that the overwhelming ministerial support will insure its passage.

As Mr. Chamberlain very properly explained in the House this afternoon, he did not intend to convey the idea that war was imminent, but he thought that Britain was in a position when a very little weight one way or the other might well decide whether war was coming or not. By this he obviously implied that prompt approval of his resolution by a substantial majority of the elected representatives of the people would be a fitting answer to the Reichsfuehrer's persistent bellicose mood.

Neither the Prime Minister nor the public at large would welcome a general election at this stage of Europe's explosive condition. No matter what precautionary measures may be taken by the authorities or Parliament at Westminster, the man who will shout his reply to President Roosevelt's memorable message of peace from the German capital tomorrow appears to be bent on further disturbances in continental Europe unless he can get what he wants by the technique which has served him so well, but which will evidently no longer impress Great Britain or France.

In these circumstances, therefore, a solid front of the British people, bowing to the especial exigencies of these times and not with any confession of change from their rooted objection to the continental military system, will count more even with Herr Hitler than anything else at this juncture. It would suit his book admirably to feel he had forced a general election.

Echoes of "Golden Ears"

TO THE TUNE OF "JOHN HART'S Brass," the Vancouver Daily Province has treated itself to another pre-by-election outburst against the Pattullo government in general and the Minister of Finance in particular. The editorial liver is evidently suffering from political cirrhosis—of a much less vicious type, however, than that which produced the soliloquy on the "Golden Ears of Dewdney." But how was Mr. Hart to know that his recital of a few financial facts would stir up the kind of bile which exploded in this:

"If Mr. Hart thought that by bragging of his government's financial achievements he was adding to the government's prestige in Vancouver, he was much mistaken. No stronger criticism of the Pattullo government's attitude to the municipalities has been voiced in recent months than that which came from Mr. Hart's lips."

Apart from the fact that he was able to remind an audience on Monday night that the government of which he is a member assisted Vancouver financially in 1938 to the tune of $2,577,000, compared with $1,484,000 in 1928, Minister Hart assured the people of British Columbia as a whole that the province's obligations would be met as they fell due. He naturally thought they ought to know this. It is their business. Even those to whom the Vancouver Province would sing "John Hart's Brass"—intelligent people—know that when he can go down to New York and borrow money cheaper than the provincial treasury has ever borrowed it before, there is nothing much wrong with British Columbia's financial structure.

But we can hear our contemporary echo: That is no reason why Mr. Hart comes "boasting of his capable financing, and preening himself because of his record revenue." The Vancouver newspaper finds it annoying, of course, to have to admit that the minister has placed the province's credit on a very high pedestal in the international realm of money, that he is doing a good job of work as British Columbia's guardian of the treasury—even if he has a rooted objection to taking dictation from the Daily Province every time it feels the urge to go full Tory on the eve of a by-election.

We observe, incidentally, that it is avoiding the verbal binge on which it went just before the Dewdney by-election nearly a year ago. That was an awful "morning after" for our Vancouver contemporary. And how the "Golden Ears" did "look down on Dewdney," and how the "Golden Ears" listened "in the evenings to what Dewdney" heard "in its election campaign." For had not the Pattullo government gained the seat formerly held by the leader of the Conservative Party?

Fine Humanitarian Work

NOT MANY YEARS AGO AN ORGANIZATION whose members are known to the world in general as Shriners took upon itself a heavy responsibility. It was not at all sure it would achieve what was hoped of it. But it represented a response to an urgent humanitarian call. In other words, this organization of Shriners undertook to build, equip and maintain hospitals for the treatment of crippled children of parents financially unable to provide hospitalization and orthopedic treatment. There are now 15 of these hospitals operating, 12 of which are in the United States, two in Canada, and one in Honolulu. No child of poor parentage, whatever his or her color, creed, or race, is debarred—provided there is a reasonable chance of benefit being derived from specialized treatment.

This magnificent effort has resulted in thousands of potential cripples, not a few of them from British Columbia, being restored to bodily health and made sufficiently strong to compete in the outside world with their more fortunate brothers and sisters. It is interesting to note, incidentally, that during last year 3,730 children were admitted to Shriners' hospitals in various parts of North America, and 3,640 of them were either cured or substantially benefitted. These figures and their implications, the fine work they represent, may perhaps be forgotten as our citizens gaze on Shriners on parade. To the popular and uninstructed world the brilliantly-costumed Nobles of the Ancient Order do not suggest thoughtful labors in behalf of stricken infantile humanity. But it is nevertheless true that the Victoria organization's initiative in bringing its fifth annual circus to Victoria represents another commendable effort to swell the sinews of war against some of the ills which afflict the continent's youngsters.

Minority Discussions

NOT AN INCONSIDERABLE ELEMENT among the political and diplomatic diagnosticians is inclining to the view—probably to extract some consolation from the present discontents—that the continued tension in Europe is having one good effect in that the governments of those countries which consider themselves in danger are making real efforts to placate the racial minorities within their frontiers. Thus there is general satisfaction in Poland at the declaration of the leading newspaper of the Ukrainians that they will stand by the Poles in the event of a conflict with Germany, just as they did in 1920 when Poland was invaded by Russia. The Polish Ukrainians deny semi-official reports issued from Vienna that there is anti-Polish agitation among them. No doubt Germany would be glad to encourage any such agitation, but authoritative observers say no sign of it exists.

In Jugoslavia, on the contrary, there has been for nearly 20 years a large and really dissatisfied racial minority. Serbia became powerful at the end of the Great War, when to her own fairly extensive country were added Montenegro and the Austrian spoils of war, Croatia, Slovenia, Bosnia, and Dalmatia. It was King Alexander's policy to unite all these newly-acquired provinces so closely with Serbia that their national ambitions and characteristics would disappear and all would be merged in one nation. The Croats and Slovenes have resisted this attempt to destroy their nationality, and at times have been sternly repressed by the government in Belgrade.

At last, in view of the common danger, a better feeling prevails. The new Jugoslav Premier announced that the government's policy would be to strive particularly for an understanding with the Croats in a spirit of tolerance and on a basis of full equality between Croat and Serb. Recently, he has had conversations with Dr. Machek, the leader of the Croats, who says that for the first time the Croat question is being discussed along the right lines. Good Friday's events, almost at Jugoslavia's door—when Italy grabbed the neighboring state of Albania—should expedite the settlement.

The spirit of nationalism sounds like something respectable until you notice that it means: "We're better'n you are."

Each climber reveals his own measure. The acquaintances he mentions to impress you are the ones he regards as his superiors.

The modern auto horn neither honks nor peeps. There has been nothing like it in nature since Grandpa quit doing it with a handkerchief.

We make humor of millinery, but the two aren't alike. Millinery of 50 years ago is so awful it's funny; humor of 50 years ago is merely awful.

It's not surprising that the Netherlands is boosting its air force. That nation has to get some of its soldiers off the ground so the country won't be overcrowded.

THE WAY THINGS HAPPEN

From Ottawa Citizen

New England shoe factories are preparing to increase production by 5,000,000 pairs a year. Thereby hangs a tale.

For many years the problem of competition by the great Bata shoe factory at Zlin, Czechoslovakia, has bothered United States shoe manufacturers. Because Czechoslovakia was a friendly democratic state, the United States went out of its way in framing a reciprocal trade treaty with that country to make allowances for Bata shoes.

As might be expected, American shoe manufacturers protested strongly to Washington that their business was being ruined, that the tariff against Czechoslovakian shoes was lowered too much and that competition from Bata was too great. The government stood firm.

Now that is all over. The Austrian corporal who didn't stop fighting when the Armistice came and has since won the world war for Germany, changed all that. Hitler first took Austria; then he partitioned Czechoslovakia, and then he swallowed Czechoslovakia. It became part of the Third Reich.

Being part of the Third Reich meant that for tariff purposes Czechoslovakia was Germany. And Germany is no "favored nation" in the eyes of the United States government. So the Bata shoes that used to come from Zlin no longer come in; the barrier is now twice as high.

From Fleet Street

By PETER STURSBERG

LONDON.

I.R.A.

THE FIRST TIME I heard of the I.R.A. was at a party in Chelsea. We were sitting around a fireplace from which came a golden glow but no warmth, for the party was being held in a flat which was completely air-conditioned and centrally heated. It was one of a block of 800 flats.

Nell Gwynn's town, Chelsea, beloved by artists and writers and Bohemians, still has its quaint old houses and narrow streets, but they are being pushed out of the way by the modern mass dwelling—which, however, has had the grace to remember Nell.

In front of one great apartment house calling itself after the courtesan of Charles II is a statue of Nell Gwynn which is floodlighted at night.

At this party in Chelsea, as we sat around the cheery neon tubes, a fellow said to me:

"I have an Irish friend and he tells me there are going to be bomb outrages by the I.R.A. throughout England."

That party was in the late autumn last year, at least a month before the first bomb shook England. I paid so little attention to what he said that I did not remember it till I met him again a few days after the explosions in Leicester Square and Tottenham Court Road tube station.

THE "SCOOP" THAT FAILED

I GAVE YOU A SCOOP and you didn't use it," he laughed. But even if I had considered what he had said at that party more important than gossip, no one else would have believed it then, and no editor would have published it.

Yet the bomb outrages were planned months before they took place. According to Scotland Yard, the I.R.A. (Irish Republican Army) met in secret conclave at Dublin in July and mapped the terrorist campaign. At that meeting they appointed a commandant-general for England.

He was subsequently caught and sentenced to 20 years, but another man was sent over to take his place. The police know he is in England but (up to the time of writing) they have not established his identity.

Due to the relative failure of the bombs a lot of people are inclined to disparage the I.R.A. as a bunch of amateur terrorists. Actually it was only due to great luck that the boat race and the Grand National took place this year.

The I.R.A. has changed its tactics with time. First it attempted to blow up railway and power stations, then bridges and canals, and lastly shop windows. The last attempts have been the most successful due to the fact you simply cannot guard every shop window in England.

The night, or rather the early morning, when seven I.R.A. bombs went off in London we had a most incredible time. One of our reporters ran into an explosion and was almost arrested as an I.R.A. man.

I was working on the late night shift. Usually there is nothing to do and we sit around playing cards till dawn. At 12.30 another reporter and myself went to cover the explosion that blew out a show window in the News-Chronicle Building in Fleet Street.

When we got back we found out another man had been sent out to an explosion in Park Lane. By 1.30 a.m. we had settled down to a game of poker.

DISTURBING THE GAME

BY 3 A.M. I WAS DOWN a few bob and was looking forward to a change of luck when the telephone bell rang. Mellor, a reporter on the day shift, rang to say he had just been woken up by two explosions. As he lived in Hampstead we jumped into a car and headed north. At Camden Town we rang the office and they told us it was in Tottenham Court Road, so we swung around and headed back. Sure enough, the whole front of a large store had been blown out in Tottenham Court Road.

I looked at the damage then crossed the road to where the police were holding back the crowd. I walked in front of the crowd till I came to a taxi driver who I thought might have seen it happen.

"Did you see this go up?" I asked him.

"I chased the man who did it," he said.

With such luck we had the story in a few minutes, but before I had finished telephoning I was told there was another explosion on Edgware Road. We got there before the firemen even arrived and there was glass and ladies' shoes all over the street, but when I went to the telephone the office told me they already had the story.

Just at that moment Mellor came to the phone box.

He had dressed and jumped in his car after telephoning us. When he had found out that the explosion was in Tottenham Court Road, he headed for it as fast as he could.

MORE EXCITEMENT

HE WAS VERY annoyed when he had to stop at some lights. As they changed he started slowly, then there was a heavy explosion. He turned to a taxi next to him and asked the driver where it came from.

"I think it is in that shop where the smoke is coming from," the driver said.

Suddenly the window of the shop seemed to bulge. Then with a roar it cracked and blew out at him. Mellor swung his car to avoid the flying glass. Fortunately it did not reach him. He jumped out of the car and dashed to a phone box.

As he came out a bobby asked him to identify himself.

On the Record

By James Dyer in the Vancouver Sun

BACK IN 1933, Premier Pattullo made a sturdy declaration that British Columbia, if co-operation were not forthcoming from Ottawa, was prepared "to go it alone."

Not much has been heard of that challenge latterly, save when opposition politicans use it as a convenient gibe.

But British Columbia, quietly and without much fuss, has in a very important manner been "going it alone" for the past five or six years—and the man who, with the Premier, has had most to do with the shaping of that policy is Hon. John Hart.

Mr. Hart made a speech in Vancouver, Monday night, a speech with the ring of gold in it—Revenues of $32,600,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31, largest revenues in the history of the province. That Monday night speech had a double purpose. Mr. Hart had been asked to help out the Liberal campaign in Centre. He made his contribution with a prosperous tale of a bursting treasury, of decreasing public debt, of credit available at the lowest rate in the history of this province.

But, over the heads of the electors who heard, that speech-gun was trained on Ottawa, and on Toronto, Montreal, London and New York, where financial policies are weighed and the measure taken of a government's financial stability and responsibility.

In effect, Mr. Hart on Monday night delivered the budget speech which under ordinary circumstances he would have saved for the attentive ears of the M.L.A.'s in November.

Why wait for November, when debt obligations are falling due this summer? These obligations will be met—can, in fact, be met with cash if other means fail. But Mr. Hart, with shrewd foresight, is preparing now for the assault on the strongholds of Eastern Capital, so that other means shall not fail.

REVENGE

Why should they fail? Mr. Hart came back jubilant from New York, only the other week, with a cheque for $3,000,000 in his pocket. Three millions secured in New York at the lowest cost basis this province ever has known!

Such a triumph is doubly sweet to the minister of finance; for it gives him revenge upon the holders of the purse strings in Ottawa.

Hark back a few summers. There was talk of the federal government establishing a loan board to organize the indebtedness of the province on a "sounder" footing. That plan fell through chiefly because British Columbia shied away, for it meant that once in it, the provinces would lose control of their financing, the Dominion would shut down on new loans for years to come.

Ottawa, apparently, has never given up hope of getting British Columbia into a loan board that will cover the four western provinces.

And so perhaps Ottawa would not be displeased to see British Columbia in financial difficulties, taking a rough ride in the money markets.

THEY SMILED

When Mr. Hart went east recently in search of his $3,000,000, he went first to Ottawa. He wanted the money to pay part of the unemployment relief costs of the province. You have a surplus, you say, of $4,000,000," said Ottawa. "You are cashing debt payments with it, and then expect us to lend you that money for relief. So sorry!"

Mr. Hart went to the Canadian banks. They were willing, but the terms they wanted were not to Mr. Hart's liking. "I will go, then," said he, "to New York."

There was quiet amusement in the financial halls in eastern Canada, in the purlieus of Parliament Hill. They felt sure Mr. Hart would come away from New York empty-handed.

Poor Mr. Hart did not know this. Blithely he went to New York, and at once found banks and bond houses jostling each other to offer him hospitality. You see, in Wall Street, they watch the affairs of governments pretty closely, and no part of the world has been watched with greater interest than British Columbia.

Thus, in the span of a few days Mr. Hart had his loan—and it is significant that Mr. Hart did not have to go far to peddle his bond. There was no selling over the counter. One financial house took it—in one debenture.

One swallow does not make a summer. Mr. Hart has to meet $54,000,000 in debt maturities in these next five years. But one swallow is a pretty fair sign. Mr. Hart is smiling. He is going it alone and doing well at it.

WHO IS HOLDING THE BAG?

To the Editor:—Having received a roasting—'a la broche'—from Mr. Merriman in his column on Saturday night, I should hesitate in coming back for a second helping! But I was somewhat intrigued by Charles L. Clarke's appeal, in your same issue, for an answer to the question, "Who is holding the bag?" My "versatile information" is vague—in fact void—as to the origin of that popular phrase; however, as I interpret its meaning, the answer to your correspondent's query is: "We, the great mass of the common people."

We (the said bag-holders) constitute the greatest holding company on the face of the earth. That the bag remains comparatively empty is due to the fact that the "bossy-man" bagger is busy filling his, and his associates', containers. Until our company hands the bag (or "sack"—ref. Mr. Merriman's dictionary!) to the bagger and takes over the filling end of the business, just so long will we continue to hold the bag of scarcity in the granary of abundance.

I would suggest seeking an answer to this qustion from the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" (more apropriately, I venture, "Old Gentleman"!), whence an explanation of your correspondent's paradox—and many others which are perplexing the people at present could be procured. In waiting for Sir Montague's reply, I would suggest reading or re-reading both Bellamy's "Looking Backward" and "Equality."

THANKFULNESS

To the Editor:—I would like to express, through the medium of your paper, my heartfelt thanks to all those who helped me in any way after I was injured in the vicinity of McAulay Golf Club Sunday evening, April 15, especially those who took off their coats and any other covering they could get and put over me in order to keep warmth in my body. Constable Stancombe was soon on the scene and seemed to know what to do and how to do it. The city police in charge of the ambulance were all tenderness and did not waste any time in getting me to hospital, where I was able to get medical attention.

HOW DANZIG MIGHT BE TAKEN—Should the Danzig area and the Free City of Danzig be next in Nazi expansion—an attack against which dispatches today say Poland would resist—above map shows how the seizure might be accomplished. Over highways, shown in heavy black, German troops could march in from East Prussia on the east, and across Polish Corridor from Germany, on west. Vistula River, reaching sea in Danzig area, is important Polish outlet to Baltic. But Gdynia, Polish-built port, provides backstop in case Danzig is taken by Hitler.

Are You WEAK, PALE?

IF you are weak, pale, thin or have no appetite, you need a tonic to build you up. An excellent tonic to take is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which stimulates the appetite and tends to improve the digestion of food — the natural body-builder. Mrs. Adelaide Mundy, 229 Talbot St., London, Ont., says: "I was very thin and pale. I was so dreadfully weak I could do very little. I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and my appetite improved just wonderfully. I gradually gained weight and strength and felt like my normal self again." Get it from your druggist today.

Stress Value of Early Training

In connection with the religious survey now being held in the schools, the Ministerial Association of Victoria says it is convinced that if children were given the foundation of Christian religion in their homes and in Sunday school during their early childhood the reformatories would eventually be emptied.

"The backbone of Canada depends on the home life of her people, and we must never forget that the children being taught by us today will be the men and women who shall have to fathom the problems of Canada in the years to come. Let us therefore strive to give them the only solid and sure foundation there is—that of the religion of Jesus Christ," says a statement issued by the association.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did — even look healthy and strong, yet — you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Festival Dancing To Start Friday

Many Outside Entries To Feature Competition At High School

Folk dancing classes of the Victoria Musical Festival—this year segregated from the purely musical part which wound up last Saturday—will be judged in the Victoria High School gymnasium tomorrow afternoon and Saturday night.

Miss Barbara Hinton, who has been teaching folk dancing and gymnasium work here for some time, will be the adjudicator. W. H. Muncy, who has been responsible for the folk-dancing section almost since the Victoria festival started 13 years ago, will again be in charge of the arrangements.

Strong competition from individual dancers and teams from up-island districts and Vancouver will again mark the classes. St. Ann's Boys' School, Duncan, is sending a group, and there will be five from the Mary Isdale Dancers, Vancouver, and two from the Vancouver Folk Dancers.

There will be 11 cups awarded on the final night.

Features of Friday afternoon's session, starting at 2, will include: Singing game, grade 1; singing game or folk dance, grade 2; folk dance, grade 3; folk dance, grade 4; English or Scottish folk dance, grades 5 and 6; European folk dance, grades 7 and 8.

Saturday night's program will be as follows: English or Scottish folk dance, grades 6 and 8; Irish folk dance, under 14 years, competing for Sir John A. Macdonald Challenge Cup; English or Scottish folk dance, grades 9 to 12; Irish folk dance, senior, competing for Radbourne Challenge Cup; English sword dance, senior, competing for Mrs. J. O. Cameron Challenge Cup; Morris dance, under 14 years, competing for Sayward Challenge Cup; English country dance, junior, competing for Kent Piano Challenge Cup; English country dance, senior, competing for Elks Challenge Cup; Morris dance, senior, competing for Arion Club Challenge Cup; folk dance other than that of British Isles, under 14 years, competing for Davis and King Challenge Cup; Scottish folk dance, senior, competing for Lady Barnard Challenge Cup; folk dance, senior, competing for B.C. Electric Railway Company Challenge Cup.

The champion gymnastic team of Canada will appear at the Victoria Recreation Centres' display at the Armories tomorrow night. Art Warburton of Vancouver, Canadian all-round gymnastic champion, winner of the mat tumbling and parallel bar titles, and John Matte, formerly of Victoria, high bar champion, will also attend.

Preparations for Flower Show

Arrangements of the Victoria Horticultural Society's Spring Flower Show are being completed. The massed spring flowers will create a riot of color in the main building at the Willows from Friday afternoon, May 5, to Saturday evening, May 6.

Competitive exhibits will be judged and the public will see among the various displays flowers which will adorn Victoria gardens in the future, and the show will afford citizens a golden opportunity to choose their horticultural needs for next year's garden.

ACCIDENT TOLL KEPT LOWER

Reduction This Year Despite More Cars On Road in B.C.

Surveying the first quarter of the year, Provincial Police motor branch officials said today that traffic safety measures adopted by the province are bringing about a reduction in highway accidents.

Up to the end of March, the official returns showed 1,018 accidents had occurred compared with 1,045 for the same period last year. Fatalities numbered 19 against 22 and injured persons 466 against 412.

The decrease in the accident total came about despite an increase of about 8 per cent in the number of cars using the highways.

Officials said they attributed the drop to the safety campaign launched more than a year ago, which indicates stricter control of speed, driving tests for motorists and, in Vancouver, mechanical inspection of cars.

HELD SING-SONG IN Y.M.C.A.

About 200 young people attended the sing-song held in the gym of the Y.M.C.A. Sunday night.—First United Y.P.S. were in charge, with Miss Mary Loudoun in the chair. Miss Lauretta McCall and Wm. Inglis sang a duet, accompanied by Jack Smith.

The meeting closed with an impressive ceremony, opened with a scripture lesson read by Wm. Sawyer, after which the representatives from the societies who had taken the sing-song during the season each lit a candle and gave a short prayer.

The following societies were represented: Church of Our Lord, Metropolitan United, Centennial United, Victoria Truth Centre, First United, Esquimalt United, Y.W.C.A., St. Andrew's Presbyterian, Emmanual Baptist, Oaklands Gospel Hall, James Bay United and Y.M.C.A.

Refreshments were served. Next Sunday evening the sing-song will be held from CFCT studios at 9.

Judgment Soon On Gas Appeal

Decision at Earliest Possible Time Promised By Court of Appeal

The province's appeal against the judgment of Mr. Justice Manson declaring ultra vires the price-fixing clause of the Coal and Petroleum Control Board Act closed in the Court of Appeal yesterday afternoon.

Judgment was reserved on the understanding a decision would be handed down by the court, composed of the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice McQuarrie and Mr. Justice Sloan, as soon as possible.

For the last day and one-half J. Pitcairn Hogg, assistant to Hon. Gordon S. Wismer, K.C., Attorney-General, replied to points raised by Senator J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., counsel for the oil companies.

NO NEW TRIAL SOUGHT

At the close of hearing the Attorney-General abandoned his claim for a new trial on the issue on the grounds he had not been given opportunity in the court below to cross-examine on alleged "concealed profits." The point was not material, he said, when it was drawn to his attention by the Chief Justice.

Mr. Hogg, yesterday, emphasized the fact the province attempted to regulate prices on commodities in the provincial sphere only. The Legislature accepted the crude oil price at the boundary, he said.

Reactions of the company outside British Columbia to control within were only indirect results of the legislation. The respondent oil companies had failed to answer the province's question whether or not 6 cents a gallon was an adequate figure for the manufacture of gasoline from crude oil, Mr. Hogg said.

He attacked the "sales realization" method of accounting by the companies, saying such a system made no true analysis of production costs.

In some detail Mr. Hogg discussed the federal dump duty and its intent, saying it left the field open for price-fixing in the province by the provincial legislature.

EFFECT OF ARGUMENT

He suggested the whole tenor of Senator Farris' argument would be to invalidate any regulation by the province of any business if it were shown there were incidental effects beyond the boundaries of the province.

The purpose of the act was clear. It aimed to cover issues in the province and should not be confused with proposals of the oil companies should the act be enforced.

Benefits might be accorded coal if the price of fuel oil were raised by the companies to compensate for a drop in gasoline prices, Mr. Hogg admitted. But such benefits did not constitute "protection" for the coal industry, he argued.

The amending act of 1938 was not aimed at frustrating the action before the court, but at correcting certain flaws in prior legislation to bring it within the bounds of the province, he said.

"If there are incidental effects, which we do not admit, they do not vitiate legislation for regulation within the province," he stated.

UP TO COMPANY

Earlier in his reply Mr. Hogg had said price-fixing clauses merely curtailed the revenue of the companies on their B.C. operations. How the larger groups wished to deal with that curtailment would rest with the companies themselves, he said.

The question in court was simply that touching on the validity of the act, he stated.

Turning to losses allegedly suffered by the companies, Mr. Hogg stated the price question had been considered by the province on the assumption of a profit for the companies.

The move to set gasoline prices was a move to cover gasoline alone, not in its relation to the costs or price of fuel oil.

He suggested there was a direct break in operations between California wells and B.C. distribution, noting the Imperial Oil Company in the province bought crude oil from the Union Oil Company for refining here. That, he contended, destroyed the argument of an integrated company if an integrated company was in a peculiar position. The suggestion that price reductions in the province would be spread through the company from service station to oil well, was negatived inasmuch as alleged concealed profits on processes beyond British Columbia were virtually negligible, Mr. Hogg contended.

The price of gasoline in British Columbia, a relatively small outlet in the world field, would not, he claimed, upset the entire industry in all its ramifications.

The pressure, under price fixing, would come where process costs were listed as excessive in comparison to actual production costs, Mr. Hogg said.

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S.

The Metropolitan Y.P.S. have arranged summer beach parties on June 6, July 4, and August 15. It has been decided that the beach party to be held on behalf of the Young People's Union will take place on July 25. Next Tuesday, May 2, will be the last meeting night before the closing banquet on May 9.

GAINS SHOWN IN INSURANCE

Increases and some minor decreases in miscellaneous insurance written in British Columbia last year was shown in preliminary returns issued by H. G. Garrett, superintendent of insurance.

Premiums for accident insurance were up $8,000 at $577,538 and losses up $3,000 at $299,688. On sickness insurance premiums were up $18,000 at $170,195 and losses down $17,000 at $85,109.

Premiums collected for marine insurance were $1,185,914, down $78,000, and losses were $623,322, up $53,000.

In public liability insurance a gain of $22,000 was shown in premiums to a figure of $212,465, and an increase of $14,000 in losses, which stood at $71,124.

Only $614 was collected in weather insurance premiums and losses were $502. This compared with $13,270 and $1,142 the previous year.

Theft insurance produced $189,339 in premiums, down $2,000 but losses were up $17,000 at $81,325.

On plate glass insurance premiums totaled $58,155, about the same, and losses were up $11,000 at $43,073.

Dainty Crusader Has Striking Personality

Miss Loh Tsei Is Warmly Greeted On Arrival Here

An old adage has it that the most valuable things come in small packages. The old saying comes irresistibly to mind on meeting Miss Loh Tsei, the Chinese "Joan of Arc," who arrived in Victoria yesterday afternoon on a speaking mission in the interests of her war-ravaged people.

VIVID CRUSADER

Slim and dainty in her native costume of deep maroon silk, this brilliant and attractive young crusader of 23 is possessed of such a passionate devotion to her country's interests that one marvels at the dynamic personality hidden in so Dresden-china-like a form.

It is five months since Miss Loh Tsei left New York to undertake a speaking tour to enlist the sympathies of the people of Canada and the United States on the side of her valiant countrymen and women, and as she naively said yesterday, "I still cannot get used to being called a lecturer. That draws up a vision of bespectacled professors with long beards and books of learning under their arms. It seems only the other day that I was too shy to utter a word in English."

She is the very personification, the symbol, of the youth of China and of China's indomitable spirit—and that without losing any of her striking, vivacious and feminine appeal.

One can easily understand her leading a march of students from the University of Tsinghau, Peiping, in protest against the setting up of a puppet state in Manchukuo, an adventure which earned her the sobriquet of "Joan of Arc." She plans to return to China in June to take part in service in the war area and hopes to be a war correspondent, she says.

GUEST AT TEA

In an impromptu little speech at a tea given in her honor at the Hongkong restaurant by the Chinese Youth Association yesterday afternoon, she proved herself a master of beautiful English, full of fire and eloquence, exhibiting the intellectual strength of a patriot who firmly believes that her country must and will win in the end against the forces of aggression.

But she admits that the struggle will not be an easy one. "The overwhelming sympathy shown by the democratic and peace-loving people of the world has been a source of great strength to China. But it is agonizing to us to see Canada sending war material to Japan. If you saw your neighbor being murdered, would you supply the criminal with the bullets and the guns to carry out that murder?" she asked.

She spoke with burning pride of China's new spirit of unity, the effectiveness of her guerilla forces of 2,000,000, and the growing strength of her new army, which is slowly but surely becoming mechanized and well trained, and taking their toll of the Japanese forces.

Miss Loh Tsei received an enthusiastic welcome from the Chinese community, as well as from the members of the Committee on Medical Aid for China, and the Embargo Committee. John Bong presided at the tea held in the Hongkong restaurant and the distinguished visitor was welcomed in brief addresses given by Rev. Bryce Wallace, Dr. D. M. Baillie, Professor E. S. Farr, Miss Ruth Kipling, Miss Violet Wilson, Claude Campbell, Jim Wong and Joseph Hope.

Tea was served at tables arranged with sweet peas, the committee in charge of the tea arrangements including Misses Pearl Hope, Mabel and Doris Chan, Mary Iso, Lily Lowe, Anna Chan, Emily and Eva Lee, Ida Wan and Lan Chow, who recently returned from Hongkong.

St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church W.A., Esquimalt, held a business meeting Tuesday in the Guild Room, with Mrs. Silburn in the chair, when a new member was welcomed. Rev. A. Bischlager gave the members an interesting talk on social service work. Plans were made for forthcoming teas and a big summer garden party, the date of which will be announced later. Mrs. Kennedy consented to be the convener for a silver tea to be held at Mrs. J. C. Stewart's home, Work Point Barracks, on May 10, from 3.30 to 5. The meeting adjourned with prayer, and tea was served by Mrs. Lockley and Mrs. R. McVie.

Miss Mitchell, director of nursing, was presented on her arrival with a corsage of roses and sweet peas. The hotel orchestra, under Mr. W. F. Tickle, played selections from "The Mikado" as a special number in honor of the class. Tea was served from a long table centred with a large bowl of scarlet tulips and white lilac with matching tapers, carrying out the hospital colors. Those present were: Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Walker, Miss L. Mitchell, Miss G. Curry, Miss S. Porritt, Miss D. Riches, the class members, and the hostesses, Mrs. H. F. Harman, Mrs. G. A. Reynolds, Mrs. G. F. Waites, Mrs. R. L. Scoble, Mrs. A. L. Moss, Mrs. A. Alexander and Mrs. G. H. Gardiner.

Popular Couple Wed at Pretty Ceremony

Miss Edna Jephson Becomes Bride Of Sidney C. Hicks

Spring flowers in pale yellow, mauve, white and deep rose, to complement the colors of the bridal group, were effectively arranged in Fairfield United Church last night for the wedding of Eda Jeannette, daughter of Mrs. Arnold H. Jephson, 424 Linden Avenue, and the late Mr. Jephson, and Mr. Sidney Cardinam Hicks, son of Rev. J. P. and Mrs. Hicks, 617 Drake Street, Esquimalt. The bridegroom's father conducted the ceremony, and the organist played the wedding music.

Mr. R. H. Gibson of Bevan, B.C., gave his niece in marriage. She was a pretty picture in her basque model gown of apple-blossom pink satin, the waist made with a pointed bodice; quaint puffed sleeves ending in points, and the train of the very full skirt looped with orange blossoms. Her veil of embroidered Brussels net was worn over her face as she entered the church, and her bouquet was composed of lilies-of-the-valley, gardenias and Ophelia roses tied with white satin bows and streamers.

Miss Doris Hicks, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, in a frock of Dresden blue taffeta over a lace-ruffled petticoat which peeped beneath the hemline. Her picture hat of lace, with long ribbon streamers, matched the gown, and she carried a bouquet of tulips, from white to deepest rose. Mr. Colin Tyrrell was best man and the ushers were Mr. Vivian Hicks, brother of the groom, and Mr. Kenneth Elliott.

Posies of pink carnations tied with white satin bows marked the guest pews. The decorations in the church and at the reception were the handiwork of the Misses Sadie Underwood and Biddy Boyce.

RECEPTION AT CLUB

About 100 guests were entertained later at the Macaulay Point Golf Club, where they were welcomed by Mrs. Jephson, in a lace-trimmed gown of coral crepe, a Mayfair lilac model hat and harmonizing accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of Ophelia roses and pink hydrangeas. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in a redingote of navy blue sheer over a blue and white print frock with matching accessories and a corsage bouquet of Columbia roses and gardenias, and his grandmother, Mrs. D. J. Giffin, Vancouver, in a black and Madonna blue ensemble adorned with a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

The young couple received beneath a floral arch, and supper was served from a table covered with a pale pink damask cloth under a handmade lace and adorned with vases of pink roses and forget-me-nots and lighted with tall white tapers in silver holders.

WREATH ON CENOTAPH

After a motor trip through southern California, for which the bride left in a cornelian three-piece basque frock of check woolen, with fitted topcoat and cornelian suede accessories, Mr. and Mrs. Hicks will return to Victoria to live. On the way to the midnight boat, the bride placed her bouquet on the Cenotaph, in memory of her father, the late Pte. Arnold H. Jephson, P.P.C.L.I.

Among the gifts were an upholstered bedroom chair from the fellow workers of the bride at Maison Tyrrell's and a case of flat silver from the associates of the bridegroom at Yarrows Ltd.

Jubilee W.A. Give $520 to Hospital

The Jubilee Hospital W.A voted $520 towards the purchase of an instrument sterilizer for the hospital at the monthly meeting, held yesterday afternoon at the Nurses' Home, the president, Mrs. R. J. Jameson, in the chair. An additional sum of money for the tag day was received, making the total $696.65.

Arrangements were made for the reception and dance to be held in connection with the nurses' graduation next week. Mrs. P. E. Taylor reported $4 received in dues.

Mrs. H. G. S. Heisterman gave a report of two sewing meetings at which 125 pieces were finished. She announced that the May sewing meetings would be held on the second and third Wednesdays, instead of the first and second, in order not to conflict with the graduation arrangements.

Provincial I.O.D.E. End Sessions

Name National Councillors and Choose Delegate

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the closing session of the annual meeting last night announced their choice of seven provincial nominees, for national councillors, as follows:

Mrs. F. E. Dockerill, Mrs. G. A. Grant, Mrs. W. M. Martin, Mrs. A. P. Proctor, Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Mrs. H. M. Spedding and Mrs. R. J. Sprott. Mrs. Frank Stead was chosen as delegate to the annual meeting of the national organization in Toronto, and Mrs. R. J. Sprott was named as the third member of the war memorial committee. The other two members are Mrs. Frank Stead and Miss M. L. Bollert.

Mrs. E. W. Hamber was named honorary president and Mrs. Curtis Sampson of Victoria, honorary vice-president at the afternoon session.

A resolution calling for appointment of an emergency service-plan committee was passed. Mrs. K. Mayhew Willis of Vancouver was named to head the committee which will register members of the order for emergency service in the event of war.

Delegates chose Nanaimo for the next semiannual meeting of the provincial chapter, while the next annual meeting will be held in Vancouver.

NOW—a new, faster way in dish-washing made possible by New High-Test OXYDOL. It contains a new ingredient and does these things, compared to less efficient soaps tested:—

First:—Gives up to TWICE THE SUDS of even well-known advertised soaps that lack its new ingredient. Suds stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Second:—Goes to work on grease 25% faster—is almost INSTANT-DISSOLVING. So you see what a time-saver it is—3 times a day!

High-Test OXYDOL leaves no stubborn, greasy film! One quick wipe and Presto! Glassware, dishes—sparkle like jewels. Try it. Procter & Gamble.

Cardinal Condemns Latest Styles

Urges Catholic Women to Combat Paganism

BOSTON (CP) — Denouncing women's modern raiment, William Cardinal O'Connell said yesterday that "fashion always has been a silly and senseless dame and she seems to be growing more silly and senseless than ever."

"A clever psychologist of the day has said that you can tell the quality of a woman's brain by the kind of hat that covers it," he told an audience of more than 1,000 at the third Diocesan Congress of Catholic Women.

"With Our Blessed Lady, Mary, the mother of God, ever held before us as the model of Christian womanhood, how is it, one asks in constant wonder, how is it that they venture to enter even the portals of the temple of God clothed in the silliest raiment of those who are dedicated to the temple of shame?"

He called upon the women to combat "all the modern pagan influences which are attacking the sancity of the family and the home: Divorce, vicious propaganda, immodest action, the theatre, immoral dances and every form of degrading recreation."

Husband Opposes His Father-in-law

CHARLOTTETOWN, (CP — Quite a problem confronts Mrs. Bernadette Trainor of Charlottetown.

Her husband, C. St. Clair Trainor, was renominated last night to represent Liberals of the fifth district of Queen's County in the provincial election to be held May 18.

Mr. Trainor will oppose Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, leader of the Conservative party, who will run for the same seat in the legislature. Dr. MacMillan is Mrs. Trainor's father.

At the time of the last election four years ago, before Mr. and Mrs. Trainor were married, the Liberal candidate defeated Dr. MacMillan and subsequently was appointed clerk of the assembly.

Orphanage to Hold Linen Shower

The B.C. Protestant Orphanage will hold its annual linen shower on Thursday, May 4, when tea will be served from 4 till 6, and old and new friends of the institution will be welcomed. The ladies' committee will welcome any donations suitable for use in the home, but make a special appeal for pillow cases and single bed sheets.

Clubwomen's News

The monthly meeting of the Young Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was held on Tuesday evening in the lecture hall of the church, the Junior Auxiliary to the Women's Missionary Society also being represented. The meeting opened with prayer and scripture reading, after which Mrs. Kennedy gave a fine talk, her subject being "What Can We Do for Jesus?" Miss Dorothy Humphries explained the morning kindergarten work now being carried on by her at the church, and it was decided that she be given a cash donation for the purpose of buying supplies. Business was discussed, refreshments were served and the usual social time was spent at the close of the meeting.

Following the usual choir practice, the Georgian Choristers held an enjoyable social hour Tuesday evening at the clubroom, Fort Street. Those contributing to the program were Mrs. H. Leggatt and Mrs. G. L. Hopkins, whose vocal solos were much enjoyed. An amusing comedy was given by Mrs. J. Chadwick and Mrs. J. Hudson. Mesdames H. Gill, J. Ratcliffe, W. Grant, J. Silver, M. Wright and Miss G. Payne were the hostesses for the evening, and arranged two amusing contests, won by Mrs. Georgina Watt and Mrs. M. McKiernon. At the close of the evening a hearty vote of thanks, moved by Miss Violet Fowkes, was accorded all who had added to the evening's enjoyment.

ST. MARK'S A.Y.P.A.

A Major Bowes' Hour, Punch and Judy show, and a skit was held in St. Mark's Hall, Monday evening under the auspices of St. Mark's A.Y.P.A. Wm. Conway was Major Bowes. The program included: Vocal solos, Misses Enid Middleton, Marion Jull, Diana Kerslake, Elsie George, Messrs. Albert Playfair and Gow; violin solos, Harold George and Harold Smith; recitation, D. Nelson; vocal duet, Miss Marion Jull and Albert Playfair; pianoforte solos, Miss Jean Duncan and Herbert Smith; Punch and Judy, John Gow and assistant; skit, "Waiting for Stump Hollow Train," by Miss Margaret George, Miss Nora Cullens, Wm. Conway, Ralph Hazelton, Miss Eileen Cross, Beatty Harford, Mrs. Anne George, A. George, Henry Bruce, Clinton Conway and Miss Mabel Holyoake. The accompanists were: Miss O. L. Jull, Miss M. George, Art Fairey and Hubert Smith.

Women's Guild Hosts To Congregation

Members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and their friends were guests of the Women's Guild at a social gathering in the church lecture room last evening. Mrs. C. W. Hawkins, the guild president, presiding. The minister, Rev. J. L. W. McLean, opened the evening's program with prayer, and the president extended a welcome to all guests.

A musical program, arranged by Mrs. George Sanson, included a vocal solo by Miss A. Hood; a violin solo, Mr. Gordon Hunter; vocal solos, Mrs. C. H. Tait and Miss H. Kennedy, with Miss Marjorie Kennedy as accompanist. A community sing-song included such old favorites as "Old Folks at Home," "Long, Long Ago," "Loch Lomond" and "Home on the Range."

"The Art of Being a Good Conversationalist" was the subject of an address by the minister, who named some of the essentials as "friendliness, sympathetic interest in others and the ability to listen well."

Mr. Cullin expressed the thanks of the gathering to the artists and to Mrs. G. Sanson for convening the program. Mr. Kennedy thanked the Women's Guild for an enjoyable evening. Refreshments were served by the social committee of the guild, with Mrs. Surphlis as convener. "Auld Lang Syne" brought the evening to a close.

Provincial W.B.A. Greet Founder

Big Rally and Pageant Held In Vancocuver

VANCOUVER—Under the patronage of their founder, Mrs. Bina West Miller, Supreme President from Port Huron, Mich., over 200 members of the Women's Benefit Association of British Columbia participated in a colorful pagent Tuesday evening in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Vancouver.

In the uniforms of their respective Reviews, the standard bearers, guards, Miss Canadas and Miss W.B.A.'s, the women created a moving kaleidoscope of color as they drilled and reviewed before the distinguished guests seated on the platform.

Following the ritualistic work, class presentations and awards were made.

Prior to the rally, Mrs. Miller, who is attending all the sessions of the Provincial Convention, had been guest of honor at a dinner in the Oak Room.

At the dinner, the provincial president, Mrs. Caroline O'Brien, introduced the delegates from Rossland, Chemainus, Victoria, Nelson, Cumberland and New Westminster.

The newly-appointed delegate to the Supreme Review in New York, July 17, Mrs. Sarah Elsom of Review No. 2, was also introduced with her alternate, Mrs. Jane Cunningham of Rossland.

In response to a toast given by Mrs. Laura Le Gallais, Mrs. Miller, who founded the association 47 years ago, told the dinner guests that her deep interest in women and their problems had prompted her to start the organization.

"I am not interested in anything commercial, only to see women better themselves," she said, "and am delighted to hear that one of our members, Mrs. Paul Smith, M.P.P., has reached such a high position in the government of your province."

Mrs. Paul Smith gave the toast to the association and later addressed the rally.

John Barrymores Decide to Part

Elaine Barrie Will Seek Second Divorce

ST. LOUIS (AP)—John Barrymore, explaining "We're just two people who didn't hit it off together," confirmed reports last night that his fourth wife, Elaine Barrie, would divorce him.

The noted actor, who is appearing with his young wife here this week in "My Dear Children," said the two, who were married two and a half years ago, had decided to part. She will probably charge incompatibility, he said.

Elaine, whom Barrymore described as "a very intelligent girl and a fine actress," was not immediately reached for comment.

Without bothering to remove her makeup or stage clothes after the matinee performance, she left the theatre by a stage door, ran down an alley, stopped a taxicab, and returned to her hotel room, in which she secluded herself.

This will be the couple's second divorce. Two years ago, on April 23, Miss Barrie obtained a decree, but later the two had it set aside.

King Scores Tactical Point

Premier's and Not Governor's Attendance On Sovereign Constitutional Step

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA — What Parliament Hill would like more than anything else at the present moment is to know the "news behind the news" of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's lengthy explanation to the House of Commons of the detailed arrangements for the approaching visit of His Majesty.

Behind the government chieftain's presentation of the reasons why he, as Prime Minister, should be the minister in attendance upon the Sovereign during the latter's tour of the Dominion the federal capital scents a story.

It suspects, in brief, that at some stage in the proceedings the suggestion was made that the Canadian Prime Minister was not the appropriate individual to act as minister in attendance, but that the office should be fulfilled by some minister or official responsible not to the Canadian but to the Imperial government.

QUIET VICTORY

All of which, if true, suggests the highly-important proposition that quietly, without benefit of press controversy, headlines or other publicity, a constitutional victory has been gained by the Canadian Prime Minister more important—in Empire-wide significance—than even the issue that was raised in the 1926 election and second in importance, perhaps, only to the Statute of Westminster itself.

And Parliament Hill has a shrewd suspicion, which amounts almost to a certainty, that this is what has happened. The only confirmation for the idea which federal circles can cite is the extraordinary emphasis which ministerial pronouncements have been laying of late upon the fact that Mr. King is accompanying His Majesty on the tour. If the Prime Minister were going simply as a matter of course, parliamentarians argue, the matter would not be stressed and publicized to the extent that is the case.

Furthermore, while the emphasis which the government is laying upon Mr. King's role as escort is the only evidence which Parliament Hill can quote in support of its theory that a major constitutional issue has been fought and settled in recent weeks, there are rumors which dovetail strikingly into such a suggestion.

CONSTITUTIONAL POINT

The general tenor of the reports is that the first suggestion in respect to the Royal tour was that, in accordance with a custom which has become a tradition, there should be an Imperial minister with His Majesty while the latter was in the Dominion. Such an arrangement, however, would have suggested the intervention of another government in the tour; it would have suggested that His Majesty was in the country in some other capacity than that of King of Canada, and that some other constitutional authority surrounding His Majesty was superior to that of the Dominion's during his visit here.

In other words, any such scheme would have nullified the effect of the Statute of Westminster, under which the constitutional authority of the federal goverment—in Canada— is declared equal to the constitutional authority of any other part of the Empire.

To do justice to the situation, it is not suggested on Parliament Hill that any plans were seriously put forward by the Imperial authorities calling for the attendance of an Imperial Minister, or for any violation of the status obtained under the Westminster Act.

But there was another possibility. It might have been held that His Excellency the Governor-General, as constitutionally the head of the Dominion's government, should accompany His Majesty. Such an opinion, unquestionably, would reflect a survival of the outlook of colonial days. But there is reason for believing that it was held in circles that, normally, are most influential.

EQUALITY OF STATUS

The idea, too, however, could not have been otherwise than destructive of the effect of the Statute of Westminster. If His Majesty's Chief Minister in the overseas Dominions was not to be the Prime Minister, returned by democratic process, but a constitutional figure appointed technically by the British Government, then all equality of status became a myth.

The story on Parliament Hill is that Mr. King realized the significance of the situation, and insisted firmly that he—and he alone—was to be the Minister in attendance upon the King. And the official government release which described the arrangements announced significantly that the Governor-General, during the period of the Royal visit, will continue to exercise such functions of the Royal prerogative "as always have to be carried on from day to day."

In other words, His Excellency will continue to do business as usual at Rideau Hall. He will neither travel with His Majesty —nor will he greet him on his arrival at Qeubec. "When the King arrives in Quebec," the official announcement reads, "he will be greeted by his Canadian ministers."

In other words, while His Majesty is in Canada, there will be no intervention between him and the Canadian Government. The relationship will be complete and intimate—as complete and intimate as is the relationship between His Majesty and his United Kingdom government. And another long step will be taken in the direction of translating the Statute of Westminster from the realm of theory to the realm of fact.

And the hero of the occasion—on the assumption that the rumors which Parliament Hill credits with having a substantial basis in fact are true—is the Canadian Liberal Prime Minister.

Triumphal Arch Of Tiberius Found

VATICAN CITY—The long-lost Triumphal Arch of Tiberius, which the Roman Senate set up in 16 A.D. to hail victories over German tribes, has been found here, archaeologists believe.

The discovery, made near the ancient Chancellery Building on Vatican territory, consists of five sculptured panels and includes the only known likeness of Emperor Tiberius as an old man. Pope Pius XII has instructed Prof. Nicola Maggj, assistant to the director of the Vatican Museums, to proceed with excavations, as the marble friezes are of outstanding importance for Roman archaeology.

The first carvings found lay 16 feet underground. They came to light during excavation of the tomb of Irtius, personal friend of Julius Caesar. The carvings show political figures of Tiberius' time, and processions of priests and magistrates.

The only clue to existence of the Tiberius arch has been in the writings of the historian Suetonius. He said the Senate decided to erect it to commemorate victories over the German tribes by Tiberius' son Drusus, and the recovery of the Roman insignia, or emblem, lost at the battle of the Teutoberg Forest. Even the location of the arch has been unknown.

Baby Born On Train

WINNIPEG (CP) — As the Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental express No. 3 pulled into Winnipeg early yesterday, Mrs. W. Fawcett, Sudbury, a passenger, became the mother of a baby girl. Both are doing well at a hospital here.

Dr. W. H. Moore, Victoria, assisted at the birth.

Mme. A. H. Askanasy, formerly of Vienna, will speak in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening next at 8, under the auspices of the Women's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral. Her subject will be "Family Life and Youth Education In the Fascist Countries."

MARITAL LAWS INJUSTICES FEARED

Syphilis Expert Warns Of Difficulties Of Sure Diagnosis

CHICAGO — Warning that some of the laws designed to control syphilis, now beinng enacted by many legislatures, may create injustices appears in a report to the Journal of the American Medical Association here.

The warning seems to have special significance because one of the two physicians reporting on the problem, Dr. John H. Stokes of Philadelphia, has for years been active in the fight to eradicate syphilis from this country, and is a member of the Clinical Co-operative Group which, working with the U.S. Public Health Service, helped to draw up standards for syphilis treatment and control. Joint author of the report with Dr. Stokes is Dr. Norman R. Ingraham of Philadelphia.

A man or woman may have syphilis which is not detected by one single blood test. If one negative blood test satisfies the requirements of the marriage law, such a person can get married, but the other partner and the children may get the disease.

On the other hand, one blood test may be reported positive for syphilis when other tests and further examination will show the person does not have the disease. The one positive test might, under a certain type of marriage law, prevent the marriage, although from a health standpoint it would have been perfectly safe. These are two examples of the type of injustice which the Philadelphia physicians fear will occur unless the laws are very carefully drawn.

"Amateur and unguided lay legislative handiwork can easily be recognized in some of the marital and pregnancy enactments now in existence," they say.

Such laws may not only prove unjust, but in the light of expert testimony they will be unenforceable.

No single test or single procedure uncontrolled or unchecked should be allowed to make a diagnosis of syphilis, these authors state.

It is not to be expected that small private laboratories or even large state laboratories operating without inter-laboratory check and without clinical control will be able to render the most trustworthy reports obtainable.

The Philadelphia experts hold that it is essential that the individual autonomy and judgment of the physician be preserved in these cases.

For Goodness' Sake

One of the most remarkable facts about Irradiated Carnation Milk is that in addition to being so good for cooking, so economical and convenient, it is also a splendid milk for bottle-fed babies. Because it is heat-treated and homogenized it is more digestible than cows' milk in any other form.

Carnation is cows' milk—all the food value—just some of the natural water removed. It is always safe when you open the tin — always the same wherever you buy it. And ultra-violet light rays give it extra "sunshine" vitamin D. Hundreds of baby specialists prescribe Carnation. Ask your doctor.

Carnation does wonders for cooked dishes calling for milk or cream—and it saves on cream bills for cereals, fruits and coffee. Write for Carnation books. "The Contented Baby" is free. The big, colorful Carnation Cook Book is 15¢ (postpaid). Carnation Company Limited, Abbott St., Vancouver, B.C.

New York World's Fair Prepares For Visit of the King and Queen

The British Pavilion at the New York World's Fair mounts to a height of nearly 100 feet. The section at the right is termed the Hall of Majesty. Broad veranda terraces overlook the hedges and flowers of an old English garden.

By ELMER W. LOWER

NEW YORK—The broad, gaily decorated grounds of the World's Fair will take precedence over the salons of ultra-select Manhattan hostesses when King George VI and his Queen Elizabeth visit this city.

Social leaders of Park Avenue, Long Island and Westchester are publicly silent about their disappointment in not having occasion to display their best lace banquet sets and gold service. Tea table chit-chat, however, has it that they are doing plenty of private grumbling.

The Royal Party will give Manhattan but a fleeting glance in its one-day stand here. During that time No. 1 host is certain to be Grover Whalen, ex-official greeter and omnipresent guiding genius of the fair. Sir Louis Beale, head of the British exhibit, also will be at His Majesty's elbow.

London has read so much about the unrestrainable enthusiasm of New York's celebrity-worshipping millions that the King may put the Royal foot down on a parade from the train to the fair grounds.

A triumphant procession up lower Broadway through a canyon of ticker tape is definitely out, and reports now have it that the Royal special may be taken direct to the fair grounds. This would be a terrific blow to Manhattan merchants, some of whom are ready to drape their buildings in regal red velvet.

The World's Fair will have been officially launched more than a month before the Royal Visit and should be showing at its best. There the King and Queen will find 1,200 acres of reclaimed swampland which, at a cost of $125,000,000, have been turned into a spectacular "World of Tomorrow."

The fair is divided into two sections, one for amusements, the other for a wide variety of exhibits. The latter is expected to claim most of Their Majesties' time, particularly the $2,000,000 British Empire pavilion and those sponsored by Canada and Eire.

Great Britain has really extended itself for the New York exposition. The British exhibit cost more money and covers more space—60,000 square feet—than any sponsored at any previous fair.

In it Their Majesties will find a succession of great halls devoted to—"Majesty," "Luxury and Color," "Metals," "Democracy" and "Achievements."

Should the King and Queen be a bit homesick by the time they reach New York, the British exhibition will be a pleasant sight for them. It is constructed almost entirely of material imported from Britain. An area of 40,000 square feet is laid out in a colorful English garden, its walks made of stone taken from Whitehall Gardens in London.

The building features a series of shaded terraces where tea will be served, English style, and Sir Louis Beale hopes to have the Coldstream Guard band here for the occasion.

The Royal Party will enter the United States at Niagara Falls and proceed direct to Washington. Their visit to New York will be on their way back to Canada. When the King and Queen have finished their tour of the fair, they will return to their train and head for Hyde Park where they may spend the night at the summer home of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

After breakfast the next morning, they will resume their journey, re-entering Canada near Sherbrooke, Que. Two days through the eastern maritime province, and their visit to North America will be at an end. They sail from Halifax on June 15, reaching home on June 22.

Schooling in Work Hours

NOTTINGHAM — Every child who leaves school at 14 and goes to work in a chemical factory at Beeston, near here, is required to continue his or her education. Boys have to carry on with English, mathematics, science and art; girls with English, needlework, home training and physiology. Eight hundred school children are employed and each spends one half-day a week at school. This comes out of their working time, not play time.

During the 19th century, Italian women believed that walking in the moonlight made their hair beautiful.

THREE THINGS YOUR BREAKFAST MUST DO . . .

Breakfast should be a "starting-up" meal

Off to school he goes, ready to work hard, play hard. And mother can turn back to her dusting with a will. Because they both had a Kellogg's breakfast that started them quick and was easy to digest.

1. No time nowadays to "work up" a healthy appetite for breakfast. You need the tempting deliciousness of Kellogg's Corn Flakes to do it for you. For Kellogg's guard closely the secret of that mouth-watering, malty flavour that really helps wake your system up!

2. Rise at seven—breakfast 7:30—hard at work by eight, that's the tempo of modern life. No wonder nutritionists insist you need a light, easily digested carbohydrate food that gives you instant fuel. Easy-to-serve Kellogg's Corn Flakes help you start your day in high!

3. Round 11:30 comes mid-morning slump . . . unless your breakfast fuel is still releasing a steady flow of energy. A heaping bowl of delicious Kellogg's Corn Flakes, rich with cream and sugar, helps keep you going until lunch!

When you get up in the morning your stomach is half asleep. The right kind of breakfast is not just a luxury, it's a necessity!

Unless your mouth waters as you begin to eat, unless your breakfast is light and easy to digest, your sleepy system won't be ready to handle the "fuel" you NEED.

Golden, crisp, Kellogg's Corn Flakes are the perfect answer to the modern breakfast problem. The teasing, malty flavour is a jealously-guarded Kellogg's secret. They're rich in carbohydrate "fuel." A breakfast with Kellogg's starts you right—helps keep you going right through the morning.

Drama Festival Winners Chosen

Wilkinson Road United Players Awarded Spencer Trophy; Belmont Second

In a repeat performance following their being chosen winners of the first night of the Fifth Annual Drama Festival of the Greater Victoria and Lower Island Council, United Young People's Union, Tuesday, the Wilkinson Road United Players were awarded the J. W. Spencer Trophy in the finals held last evening before a capacity and appreciative audience in the Central Junior High School auditorium.

The winning play was Elizabeth Gale's one-act comedy, "Not Quite Such a Goose," which was also presented in competition last evening by the Belmont United Society. The Belmont group's performance won second place.

"There is no question as to the best performance," said Ross A. Lort, Vancouver, the adjudicator, in giving his decision at the close of the evening's plays, with reference to the winner.

SPLENDID PERFORMANCE

It was gratifying to see such a splendid performance by the young people, he continued. He then proceeded to give a detailed analysis of the individual parts. The play was a study in the psychology of youth in which Albert Bell, a 17-year-old boy who was at the age when his interest in girls was at a reverse, changed his attitude completely on the arrival of his sister's friend, Hazel Henderson, played by Jessie Ritz, to the Bell home for a visit.

The situations arising brought a good deal of comedy centred around the antics of Albert. With reference to young Ritz' playing of this part, the adjudicator said that he handled a difficult part well. From the first moment he made his appearance he held the stage in a masterly manner.

Miss Ritz in the opposite lead as Hazel gave a charming performance, Mr. Lort said. Her voice dropped a little too much at times—the only criticism given. Other members of the cast were: the mother, Mrs. Bell, played by Helen Ritz; the sister, Sylvia Bell, played by Patsy Gilham; Philip Flick, an admirer of Sylvia, played by William Allan. Mr. Allan directed the performance. Alvaretta McNutt was the prompter.

LAUDED FOR PRESENTATION

The second-place Belmont United Young People's Society, which presented the same play, was also lauded for its performance. Mr. Lort gave a constructive criticism of the offering, pointing out the ways for improvement. The play was directed by Dorothy Davies. The cast follows: Mrs. Bell, Kathleen Henderson; Albert Bell, Art Zala; Sylvia Bell, Miss Davies; Philip Flick, Sid Blaney; Hazel Henderson, Helen McLellan. Mona Emery was prompter and Roy Hundleby acted as stage manager.

The third play of the evening was S. Simon's one-act farce, "The Merry Wives of Boredom," retitled by the St. Aidan's players, "Mutiny in the Ranks." The cast follows: Mrs. Doris Mack by Esther Wells; Alice, by Eileen Levis; Mary, Jean Dawson; Lou, Edna Raper; Helen, Marjorie Griffiths;; Tessie, Olwin Griffiths; Ida, Florence Edwards; Gertie, Barbara Dawson. Bert Bailey directed the performance.

Following the adjudicator's remarks, Mun Hope, president of the Young People's Union, introduced Major L. Bullock-Webster, who presented the trophy.

PRESENTS TROPHY

Major Bullock-Webster said that he had watched with interest the annual festivals by the union since their conception. The standard of the performances rose from year to year. He praised the young people for their efforts, saying "Such an undertaking was not only Christian in its ambitions but cultural in its results."

Miss Gilham received the trophy on behalf of the winning cast.

In his remarks, Mr. Hope thanked all those who had contributed to the staging of the festival. Miss Helen Kent was thanked for intermission piano selections, as was George Davies, who was general stage manager and electrician.

Thanks were also extended the "Carpetorium," which supplied carpets for stage properties; David Spencer Ltd. for furniture and the School Board for use of the auditorium.

UNITED CHURCH TO CONVENE MAY 15

British Columbia Ministers to Meet in New Westminster

Members of the British Columbia Conference of the United Church of Canada will open their 15th annual session at Queen's Avenue United Church, New Westminster, B.C., on May 15.

The major portion of the opening sessions will be devoted to sessions of the Lay Association, which is an organization independent of conference but meeting concurrently. This association will conduct a forum on the responsbilities of Christian citizenship and conclude its program with a public address by the Rev. Dr. Charles Endicott. Speakers will include Percy Bengough, secretary of the New Westminster and District Trades and Labor Council, and Dr. Donald Williams, director of the veneral disease clinic of the Department of Health.

Conference proper will get under way on May 17 with Rev. Dr. George A. Wilson presiding. Election of officers will take place during the morning session. In the evening the retiring president, Dr. Wilson, will be in charge of the public meeting and will give the annual presidential sermon.

The public meeting on Thursday evening will be devoted to missions, Rev. Andrew Roddan and Dr. S. S. Osterhout giving addresses on home missions and Rev. A. E. Armstrong, secretary of foreign missions, Toronto, will give the main address.

Friday will be marked by the reception of candidates for ordination service. Rev. O. M. Sanford will give the memorial address on Saturday. Public sessions will conclude on May 22, when Rev. Dr. F. W. Norwood, who will have arrived in Vancouver a few days previous from London, England, to fill the pulpit of St. Andrew's-Wesley Church, will be the main speaker. The devotional address at 10 on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Monday will be conducted by Rev. H. A. McLeod of Victoria. It is hoped to conclude the business of conference on Tuesday, May 23, although continuation of sessions further in the week may be necessary.

Lose Strange Twin To Dinosaur Fish

LONDON—The strangest true fish story in history, just unfolded in South Africa, has developed one oddly conventional twist—the big one got away.

Scientists of three continents are all egog over the catch, near the port of East London, on the southeast coast of South Africa, of a big blue fish belonging to a family supposed to have become extinct 50,000,000 years ago. In the British science journal, Nature, published here, Dr. J. L. B. Smith of Rhodes University College, describes the five-foot, blue-scaled, archaic-styled monster. And he adds:

"After careful inspection of the mounted specimen, a responsible citizen-angler of East London stated that about five years ago he had found precisely such a fish, only considerably larger, partially decomposed, cast up by the waves on a lonely part of the shore east of East London. When he returned with assistance, the monster had vanished with a risen tide." The big one had got away.

However, Dr. Smith draws some comfort from the fact that a second fish of the same kind has been seen, even if not kept. Deep-sea trawling might conceivably bring in more specimens. The one now in the East London Museum was brought up with a haul of other fish from a depth of 240 feet, but it is considered likely that its actual habitat is deeper than that, and that it had wandered upward.

One argument for its belonging to deep water is found in the great size of its eyes. Fish from considerable depths are likely either to have very large eyes, to catch what few scraps of light there may be, or else to give up the struggle altogether and get along eyeless and blind in the dark.

It is a great disappointment to scientists that owing to inadequate facilities for preservation in East London the flash and internal organs of the "dinosaur-age" fish could not be kept. Spoilage was so rapid that the carcass had to be disposed of, and only a few small parts were kept, apart from the skin which was mounted by the East London Museum taxidermist.

Dr. Smith has given the strange fish the scientific name Latimeria Chalumnae. The first or generic name is a scholarly bow to Miss Courtenay Latimer, curator of the East London Museum, who was the first scientist to examine it. The second or specific name is a reference to Chalumna, the point on the South African coast in sight when the trawler hauled in its astonishing catch.

FLOWER SHOW AT ROYAL OAK

Royal Oak spring flower and bulb show was held under the auspices of Royal Oak Women's Institute Wednesday afternoon in the Community Hall. Mrs. R. WATTIE CUP WON BY WEILER COW

Annual Contest for Butter-fat Production Awarded Milnes Landing Jersey

On Vancouver Island much interest is taken in the winning of the Wattie Cup, which is given by Heather Bank Estates for the Jersey cow giving the largest amount of butter fat over and above that required by the R.O.P. regulations.

Of the records completed in 1938 only a difference of 12 pounds of fat separated the four highest cows. The 1939 winner, Fairholm Fox Ninon, owned by Mrs. G. O. Weiler, Milnes Landing, Sooke, produced 12,067 pounds of milk and 703 pounds of fat in 365 days, which is 303 pounds of fat higher than the R.O.P. requirements. By this record she won the gold medal certificate from the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club. This cow was bred by E. P. Ashe, Albert Head, her sire being Babecombe Bright Raleigh.

The next cow in line was Mereside Tyee Princess—72697—owned by Easton and Burkenshaw, Victoria. She was bred by Price Bros., Ganges, and sired by the Grimmer Bros., bull, Maplelawn Crown Prince. Her production in 365 days was 12,498 pounds of milk and 694 pounds of fat, or 294 pounds of fat over that required for R.O.P. qualification.

Golden Standard's Colleen—62135—owned and bred by Arthur W. Aylard, Sidney, made a gold medal record by producing 12,918 pounds of milk and 651 pounds of fat in 305 days, which gave her a surplus of 291 pounds of fat over requirements. Her sire was Golden Standard II, owned by H. E. Burbridge, Royal Oak.

Heather Bank Lady Queen, owned by Watt Bros., Duncan, completed a gold medal record of 12,063 pounds of milk and 650 pounds of fat in 305 days as a four-year-old, this also being 291 pounds over requirements. This cow was bred by A. E. Dumvill, Sardis, being sired by the bull, Lindell Cordage Beau.

Small Loans Bill Passed By Commons

Division T· On Question o ximum Interest Ra..

OTTAWA (CP)—The bill to regulate the small loan business was passed in the House of Commons last night after a last-minute effort to set a maximum interest rate of 1 per cent a month had failed.

The bill requires all money lenders to obtain licenses and fixes the maximum charge for interest, expenses and services, at 2 per cent a month for loans lasting 15 months or less and 1 per cent for loans extended more than 15 months.

Angus MacInnis, C.C.F., Vancouver East, moved to cut these rates in half and forced a formal division. His proposal was defeated 82 to 40. Supporting it were all members of the C.C.F. and Social Credit parties, most of the Conservatives and A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, as well as four Liberals, Thomas Reid, New Westminster; Elie Bertrand, Prescott, Ont.; T. J. O'Neill, Kamloops, and Dr. Harry Fleming, Humbolt, Sask.

Four Conservatives, Hon. Grote Stirling, Yale; Hon. Earl Lawson, South York, Ont.; W. A. Walsh, Mount Royal, and A. J. Anderson, High Park, Toronto, supported the government majority in voting against the amendment.

The bill, which had already been passed by the Senate, then received third reading.

Support for Militia

TORONTO (CP)—The Evening Telegram will give one week's leave, in addition to regular annual holidays, to all the newspaper's employees who are members, or who become members, of the non-permanent active militia, to attend the annual training camp of their units.

"During this week's extra leave, the militiaman will be paid his full salary," the paper stated yesterday in its announcement.

St. Barnabas' Girls' Auxiliary will hold their annual concert this evening, at 8, in the school room. There will be two plays presented by the girls entitled "An Employment Bureau" and "Our Aunt From California," also dances and musical items.

'Little Girl' Style Pleases Males

Glamour Girls Out, Petticoats in With Femininity

By ROBERT STEVENSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO—Style experts today are ringing the knell of the "glamour girl" along with a health tune on the cash register, as a new and nuttier line of feminine frills heads for the boulevards and the Easter parade.

"The 'glamour girl' is definitely on the shelf," said one votary of Schiaparelli in a downtown store. "She of the spun yarn tresses billowing on her shoulders, with heavy lipstick, pale complexion and very sophisticated clothes is gone. In her place we have—the 'little girl'."

This year's "little girl' will be altogether more curved and feminine than her counterpart last year. If you care for social psychology, this may have something or other to do with the international situation. But anyway, the net result will be young and lively—with cock-eyed hats, square shoulders, tiny waists and flouncy skirts.

It all adds up to a real fillip for the work-jaded male because skirts are getting shorter.

They'll be one to one and a half inches higher, or about 17 inches off the ground. If you want to be technical, that's about the top of the calf on most women.

Despite the upward trend, Toronto stylists see no signs of a return to the boom days of the early twenties.

PETTICOATS ARE BACK

Another tip to nervous escorts. Petticoats are back. Don't rush off the deep end if you find the girl friend parading with an inch and a half of frilly lace showing below her skirt. It's meant to be there. And it's an even chance it won't be a petticoat at all but only a lace trimming sewn to the underside of the skirt to give a petticoat effect.

So around about August it looks as though the guy who cracks—"Madam, your slip is showing"—will just be a brute for punishment.

In step with the general trend will be those things they call accessories, apparently because they're practically no use at all. The outstanding one this year is the "Chamberlain" umbrella—called in Paris "Un Chamberlain"—a feminine gadget with a large sober crook for a handle.

Pirate Craft Sinking Fast

Baseball Experts Worried Over Dismal Showing of Pittsburgh Club

Pipe the life boats, mateys, Pittsburgh Pirates' brig is sinking again.

It now develops the Buccaneers' craft didn't go to the bottom last September when the seams came apart and it resigned the National Baseball League pennant by dropping six of its last seven games. Instead the team has lost six successive contests since winning this season's inaugural from Cincinnati and one guess is as good as another when if ever the ship will strike bottom.

Pittsburgh almost invariably is a fast starter. In 1938 the club won its first seven in a row and the year before monopolized first place until June 5, winning 10 games in one unbroken stretch. This is the reason the Pirates' present plight is so upsetting.

Although they outhit Chicago Cubs yesterday in losing 3 to 1, the Pirates are batting as though they are all pitchers. Rookie Fern Bell has a fancy .444 figure, but the best mark among the regulars is Johnny Rizzo's .304.

The two Waner brothers have averages of .267, Arky Vaughan, one time league hitting champion, is doing .269, Bill Brubaker .240, Gust Suhr has a .231 average and catcher Ray Mueller .190.

PITCHERS FAIL

These figures would explain a lot of beatings, but the Pirates never fold in halves. In seven games not a single pitcher has lasted the route and the defensive play hasn't always been up to par. In one game the boys tossed together four errors.

Skipper Pie Traynor, who loses pounds every time his crew crumbles, has grasped at every straw in sight. All his plans have gone awry.

The Pirates' place in the cellar isn't the only cockeyed angle to the present National League race, because Philadelphia Phillies are in second and got there yesterday without even playing. Their game with New York Giants was rained out along with the contest between Boston Bees and Brooklyn Dodgers. So the 1 to 0 shutout St. Louis Cardinals administered to Cincinnati Reds on the five-hit flinging of Curt Davis was sufficient to move the Phillies past the Reds in the standings.

The eastern games in the American League were rained out, but the western clubs put on a good show. Detroit Tigers nosed out St. Louis Browns 7 to 6 in 10-innings in a game featured by seven home runs, of which two came from Hank Greenberg. Bill Deitrich nearly got a shutout as Chicago White Sox beat Cleveland Indians 5 to 1, but a single and a double in the last of the ninth gave the tribe a tally.

COAST LEAGUE

Although still leading the Coast Baseball League by a comfortable margin, Los Angeles Angels showed signs of faltering today with three first division teams, Seattle, Hollywood and San Francisco, crying at their heels.

Pitcher Tony Freitas of Sacramento lefthanded the Seraphs into their second straight defeat yesterday, 6 to 3, leaving the Los Angeles team only 5½ games ahead of the second place Seattle Rainiers.

Last Saturday the Angels were eight games in front. Since then they have dropped four out of five.

Seattle meanwhile slugged out a 7 to 5 victory over Oakland, Hollywood beat Portland 5 to 2, and San Francisco squeezed in ahead of San Diego Padres, 5 to 4, in an 11-inning hair-raiser.

By PETE SALLAWAY

TWO CONFIDENT basketball teams will step onto the court at the Willows tonight for the fourth game of the current Canadian basketball series. Victoria Dominoes are certain they will score their third victory and lift the title held last year by Vancouver Westerns. Windsor Alumni feel just as sure they will register their second straight win and carry the series to a fifth and final tussle tomorrow evening.

It was a far different Windsor crew after Tuesday's smashing victory. Both players and officials had new life and their spirits mounted like a thermometer in midsummer. Talked to Manager Howard Campbell and Coach Bill Butcher today and they both feel sure the series will go the limit. "We are glad the boys finally got out on the floor and showed the fans they can really play basketball," Butcher said. "We certainly didn't want to leave Victoria without showing the western fans a lot more than we did in the first two engagements."

Went around the corner and dropped in to have a chat with Art Chapman, veteran centre of the Dominoes. "You know, Pete, I played harder in that game Tuesday than either Monday or Saturday," he told me. "Guess it was because we were behind and the team was pressing. This day's rest will do us more good than Windsor and I am not worrying about the result tonight."

Then met Wally Stipe, well-known Victoria referee, and asked him for his opinion. "I think the Dominoes will pull it off tonight," he said. "Should Windsor win I wouldn't bet a dime on that final battle. It will be just a case of flipping a coin and taking your choice."

For the benefit of those fans who wondered why Busher Jackson was taken out of the game Tuesday night, we will inform you that his nerves were a little on edge as the result of an automobile accident that morning. Jackson was shaken up quite a bit and was a little jittery, so it was decided to keep him on the bench as much as possible. He will be okay for tonight.

Little Red Davies has completely recovered from the bad shaking up he received in that collision with 200-pound Chuck Chapman. The speed merchant had a sore tummy the next day but all ill effects had worn off today and he is ready again to match his speed with the best Windsor can offer.

Heard of a new wrinkle today for basketball fans. It appears Jack Grogan, well-known Victoria rugby player, attended Tuesday's game and took along a portable radio. While watching the play he was also listening to the broadcast. In others words, he was both seeing and listening to his game. On one occasion Grogan turned his back to the play and took in the game solely by radio. Thanks, we will take the real thing for ours.

Tim McCulloch, Seattle referee working in the series, dropped in to talk basketball. "If the series goes to that fifth game I am going to wire home and have my wife send me a football helmet," he told us with a smile. "Working a sudden-death game for a national championship would be no pink tea party and maybe I would need some protection like that."

LAWN BOWLING

Women members of the Canadian Pacific Lawn Bowling Club will hold their official opening on Wednesday, May 3, at 2.

WINS GRUELLING BOSTON MARATHON—One of the toughest sports events of the year is the annual Boston marathon won recently by Tarzan Brown. In a driving rain Brown ran the 26 miles in two hours, 28 minu tes, 51⅛ seconds. He is seen, above, at finish.

RIGGS, SABIN TENNIS VICTORS

Top Seeded Players Advance in Virginia Invitation Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Three top seeded favorites advanced to the semifinals of the annual Hot Springs invitation tennis tournament in straight sets yesterday.

Bobby Riggs, No. 1 Chicago player, met the stiffest competition of the trio in beating Landon Buchanan, New York, 6-4, 7-5, in a closely-contested second round match.

Wayne Sabin, Portland, Ore., second seeded entry, won a 6-4, 6-2, decision over Thad C. Benton, Orange, N.J., and Elwood Cooke, also of Portland, defeated Tom Managan, Washington, D.C., 6-3, 6-3.

Watching the second-round matches from the sidelines was Walter L. Pate, for the last three years captain of the United States Davis Cup team. Pate is using the tournament as a proving ground for squad candidates.

Jean Duncan Wins Rose Bowl Tourney

DUNCAN—Defeating Mrs. Hew Paterson, Victoria, in a 23-hole battle, Miss Jean Duncan, Cowichan Golf Club, won the annual Rose Bowl tournament yesterday. In the semifinals Miss Duncan defeated Miss Ruth Jones, Victoria, 7 and 6, and Mrs. Paterson won from Mrs. H. B. Coombe, Victoria, by a like score.

Mrs. F. S. Aldersey won the first flight by defeating Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Victoria, 3 and 2, while Mrs. V. Percival, Victoria, took the second flight by her 4 and 3 decision over Miss Eileen Powell. Miss Allen took the third flight by trimming Mrs. O. Droob 6 and 5.

Mrs. L. Howell, Victoria, donated the prizes for the hidden-hole competition for the Duncan players. Mrs. Aldersey was the winner with Mrs. W. B. Harper runner-up. In the special nine-hole consolation competition, Mrs. Howell was the victor and Miss R. Jones runner-up.

Bays, City Finalists

Defeat Spencers and Navy to Reach Last Round of Cup Soccer

Joe Bloom's Victoria City and Manager Cy Nicholls' Hudson's Bay soccer aggregations will be pitted against each other to decide the holder of the Rennie and Taylor Cup, a knockout trophy that has been up for competition for the last 15 years in midweek competition.

These two outfits gained the final bracket yesterday afternoon when they emerged triumphant in a double-header program of semifinals at the Athletic Park. The City booted out a 5 to 0 verdict over the Navy, while Hudson's Bay and Spencers engaged in a two-hour overtime battle that saw the Bays gain a 1 to 0 victory.

The performance of Victoria City footballers was an indication that they intend to knuckle down and make a strong bid for the three remaining trophies in Wednesday League competition.

Captain Charlie Sadler turned out his strongest squad of City men of the season, and with "Barney" Barnswell providing most of the scoring punch, and himself holding off the poor-working opposition with fine goal-tending, his maroon-sweatered company handed Manager Pember's naval brigade one of its worst drubbings of the season.

CITY IN FINE FORM

The City was full value for their win. They played nice ball all afternoon. The halves fed the wings liberally and the outside men in turn centred nicely to give the insides and centre ample chances at goal. Navy, on the other hand, never looked good at any time. They had a fair percentage of play but couldn't do anything with the ball when they were in position to score points. Fullbacks Glen Robbins and Eddie Ball found it quite easy to smash Navy attacks and Goalie Sadler handled those shots that got away from his defence in expert fashion.

In first-half play the maroon-sweatered lads ran in two goals. After 20 minutes Barnswell back-heeled Murray's shot from the wing and while Navy's goalie, Mundie, who was rather shaky in the goal, was fumbling with the ball Doug Bourne rapped it into the hemp. The game was near the 40-minute mark when Barnswell took Williams' pass to pick the top corner of the net.

During the first 25 minutes of the second half players on both sides did a lot of missing, but soon after Christensen made it 3 to 0 for the City when he teed up Williams' centred ball and beat Mundie. Bourne's long centre kick from the wing some minutes later saw Barnswell beat Fullback McDonald to the ball and score. Before the game ended Barnswell added another to complete the City's big shutout.

Bill Cull refereed.

Teams follow:

Victoria City — C. Sadler, G. Robbins, Ball, W. Sadler, Fieldhouse, Graves, Christensen, Bourne, Barnswell, Williams and Murray.

Navy — Mundie, McDonald, Briggs, Sands, Robinson, Hutton, Abercrombie, Ross, Cockrill, DeCosta, Walker and Mitchell.

PRESTON STARS

With only four minutes of the half-hour overtime left, veteran Bob Preston came through with the goal that gave Hudson's Bay a 1 to 0 triumph over Charlie Lewis' Diamond S crew in a replay of their drawn semifinal cup match last week, which also went an extra session. Spencer's goalie, Norm Stewardson, failed to clear Don Fish's cross from the right wing, and Preston streaked in to sink the one and only marker.

One goal down in the closing minutes, Spencers rallied and staged a hard drive on the Hudson's Bay goal in a determined attempt to even the score up before the whistle sounded. They might have accomplished it had it not been for Ab Renfrew, a wide-awake lad who guards the nets for the Bays. Shorty Collins' high drive had the "goal" sign written all over it, but Renfrew made a spectacular dive to tip it to one side of the posts.

The football played by both sides during the regulation period of play was generally ragged with lots of wild shooting. Front lines had netminders on the "spot" many times, but even then they couldn't get the leather between the posts. Brand of play was still mediocre in the overtime and it was beginning to look like a no-score draw would be the verdict at the finish when Preston rang up the winning marker on Fish's opening.

Obee refereed.

The teams were:

Hudson's Bay—Renfrew, O'Connell, Wyatt, Williamson, Stofer, Speller, Fish, Tupman, Preston, Fogden, Oakman and Stokes.

Spencers — Stewartson, Cann, D. Gent, Richards, Bradley, K. Gent, Thomas, McBride, McMillan, Collins, Raeside and Brown.

Vancouver Boys Win

Capture Four Out of Five Bouts in Canadian Boxing Championships

MONTREAL (CP) — Eighteen warriors from different parts of Canada were safely by the first round today in their quest for Dominion amateur boxing titles, as officials prepared to send another 30 fighters into action in the second part of the three-night tournament.

As Vancouver fighters showed the way with four victories in five starts last night before a crowd of nearly 9,000, officials announced the championships would be extended to three days. Originally the bouts were supposed to end tonight.

Three of five champions defending their titles were among last night's winners. Middleweight Joe Ashenbrenner of Vancouver; bantamweight Tony Roberts of Winnipeg and lightweight Frankie Williams of Regina gained decisions. Heavyweight titleholder Dick Syms of Fort William will swing into action tonight.

TURNER BEATEN

Ashenbrenner defeated Dominic de Lilla of Montreal; Roberts topped Johnny Grego, another Montrealer, while Williams was impressive in winning over Russ Oliver of Toronto. All the clashes are three rounds.

Carrying the colors of the Grandview Athletic Club of Vancouver were Ashenbrenner, Jackie Turner, Ken Lindsay, Henry Devine and Gordon Woodhouse. Only Turner suffered defeat, losing a decision in the 112-pound class to Willie Mergler of Montreal.

In the 112-pound grouping, Lindsay defeated Mervin Lewis of Woodstock, Ont. Devine scored over Mario Drombolis, Fort William, in a feather clash while Woodhouse topped Frank Petroski of Regina in a welter bout.

WRESTLING

Trenton, N.J.—Jim Londos, 199, defeated Chief Chewaki, 245, straight falls.

Rochester, N.Y. — Steve (Crusher) Casey, 232, Ireland, defeated Hal Rumberg, 227, Washington, two of three falls.

GAME SEASONS RECOMMENDED

Island Clubs Select Dates For Water Fowl and Upland Bird Shooting

Recommendations for Vancouver Island game seasons were made at a meeting of the Vancouver Island Affiliated Fish and Game Associations in Nanaimo last night.

Recommendations follow:

MIGRATORY BIRDS

Ducks, Wilson snipe, coot and geese, November 15 to January 31, inclusive. Brant, December 15 to February 29, inclusive. Bag limit, 10 per day, 50 per season.

Band-tailed pigeons, September 9 to September 24, inclusive.

UPLAND GAME BIRDS

Blue grouse, September 9 to October 31, inclusive. Bag limit: 6 per day, 24 per season.

Pheasants, October 14 to November 19 inclusive, with no shooting on first two days until noon. Bag limit same as last year.

Recommendations will be forwarded to the Game Department. Those on migratory birds will be forwarded to Dominion officials by the department.

The Denman Island delegates requested that their island be closed to all hunting but for migratory birds this year. The meeting endorsed it.

The delegates were asked in a letter from the British Columbia Anglers' Association: "What benefit, if any, has been enjoyed by prohibition of the use of salmon roe on Vancouver Island." On this question the opinion of delegates was divided. The meeting decided to refer the question of having the game regulations changed to stop shooting of game on or over traveled highways in areas adjacent to municipalities back to the individual clubs, who will give their opinion to the game board personally.

LOWLY FOOTBALL CLUBS IN DRAW

Birmingham and Chelsea Tie in English League; Preston Winner

LONDON (CP) — Threatened with relegation to the English Football League's second division, Birmingham and Chelsea battled to a 1 to 1 draw on the former's ground yesterday. Division of the spoils gave the pensioners a point-total of 31, one more than Birmingham and two more than Leicester City.

Chelsea, with two matches to play, are likely to retain major status. Birmingham and Leicester finish the season in games scheduled for Saturday.

Rookies Make Great Stand

Doing Regulars Out of Positions On Several Major League Ball Clubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Whatever the sport, the pressure usually falls heaviest on the pacesetters—and several rookies now face the problem of maintaining the high-speed standards they've set in their first few weeks in big-time baseball.

One of them is Barney McCosky, young Detroit outfielder who, through Wednesday's games, led the American League with a .515 batting average.

John Bernardino, St. Louis rookie, is playing a fine second base for the Browns. His performance makes manager Fred Haney bench either Red Kress or Don Heffner, regulars last season.

Frank Croucher is battling gamely to do the regular short-stop chores for Detroit; Jim Tabor is third basing for Boston, and the infield combination of Cleveland's two "Jimmies"—Webb and Shilling, has taken the play from the veterans Lyn Lary and Odell (Bad News) Hale. Eddie Miller of Boston Bees has put Hal Warstler on the bench.

Carpet Bowling

Three further matches in the Army and Navy Cup competition and one in the Kiwanis Cup contest were played last night at the Foresters' Hall in the Victoria Carpet Bowling League tournament. Results were as follows:

ARMY AND NAVY CUP

A.O.F. Robin Hood 18, Esquimalt 21.

S.O.E. Repulse 15, H.B. Beavers 9.

S.O.E. Lions 20, Esquimalt Rovers 12.

KIWANIS CUP

Willows Rangers 21, Willows Shamrocks 16.

FRIDAY'S DRAW

S.O.E. Victory vs. H.B. Beavers.

A.O.F. Robin Hood vs Willows Rangers.

W. B. Colvin vs. F. Thackeray.

FARR MEETS GAINS

LONDON (CP)—Larry Gains, veteran Canadian negro heavyweight, and Tommy Farr, Welsh fighter, yesterday were signed for a bout at Cardiff, May 17.

LIBERALS WORKOUT

A workout of the Young Liberal football team will be held at Beacon Hill Park Saturday at 2.45.

Squads Both Confident Of Victory

Eastern Champions Take Floor Without Red Nantais; Start at 8.30

Canada's two leading basketball teams, Victoria Dominoes and Windsor Alumni, will trot out onto the court at the Willows tonight for the fourth edition of their current national final. Present standing finds the Dominoes leading the eastern champions two games to one.

Play tonight will get started at 8.30 with another sellout crowd certain.

Both clubs are confident of victory. A win for Dominoes will give them the title. A win for Windsor will force a fifth and deciding clash tomorrow night.

Dominoes took Saturday night's game 37 to 29, followed with a smashing win 51 to 33 on Monday and in a complete reversal of form Tuesday lost to a much superior Alumni team, 30 to 24.

Windsor will take the floor without the services of Red Nantais, veteran guard, who has been put on the sidelines for remainder of the series with a pulled ligament suffered Tuesday night.

Howard Campbell, manager of Windsor, said today he expected a much stiffer opposition tonight, but not stiff enough to beat his boys. "We expect to leave for home Saturday, not Friday," he said.

Coach Bill Butcher also expected the full five-game series to decide the title. "It was the greatest comeback I've seen," he said. "Our boys showed the stuff they are made of when they put on that terrific spurt after losing Nantais. We'll be in there fighting all the time and show Victorians what brand of basketball we are capable of."

Official Bowling Opening Saturday

A large number of Canadian Pacific lawn bowlers turned out over the week-end to give the rinks at the Crystal Garden a preliminary try out. So satisfactory were the results that it has been decided to hold the opening ceremony Saturday afternoon at 2.15. It is hoped that President George Ozard will be present to lead the ceremony.

The official opening of the 1939 season by the Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association will also take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 at the Canadian Pacific green, when a good representation from all the district clubs is expected.

Jack Barton Victor

Jack "Blondy" Barton pedalled his way to victory in both races held by the Victoria Cycle Racing Club last evening on the pine oval on Douglas Street at Burnside Road.

He beat the field to the finish-line in the six-lap event, with Garfield Warren second and Gordy Bell third. Barton breezed home the winner in the 22-lap, two-mile event after a thrilling dash to the finish line with Bell. Barton did the two miles in 4 minutes 46 seconds. Charlie Warren was third.

The club's weekly handicaps will be held Thursday evenings in future.

SAYS ATHLETES ARE HALF-BAKED

W. J. Smith, Kitchener, Criticizes Sending Canadians to Olympic Games

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—W. J. Smith, president of the Ontario Sports Federation, last night condemned in a speech the sending of Canadian athletes to Olympic and British Empire Games. "The Olympic Games up to the present have been a wonderful trip for a bunch of half-baked athletes with no possible chance to get results," Smith said.

The federation was formed here last year and has several Ontario sports bodies affiliated with it. It has no governing voice, being more in the nature of a central body promoting sportsmanship.

Smith said he believed the money used in sending athletes to the games would be well spent if the athletes studied coaching methods of other countries and taught them to children on their return. "But this is seldom done," he declared.

He also condemned the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for building up its treasury while, he charged, it refused to pay adequate expenses for traveling hockey teams.

Pan-American Travel Congress Endorses Plan for Road

Delegates from Mexico and the South American republics as well as those from the United States and Canada showed keen interest in the Alaska Highway plan during discussion at the first Inter-American Travel Congress held in San Francisco, April 14 to 21, and went on record as favoring its construction.

The congress was called by the Pan-American Union and it was the first time Canada had ever joined with the United States and the other 20 American republics in a function of the union.

The Dominion was represented officially by D. Leo Dolan, chief of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, Ottawa, who was unanimously chosen general chairman of the whole congress.

E. G. Rowebottom, deputy minister of trade and industry, represented the British Columbia Government.

Other B.C. delegates included Major Gordon Smith, commissioner of the provincial travel bureau; W. Lloyd Craig, director of the B.C. exhibit at the Golden Gate Exposition, in the grounds of which the conference was held; George I. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau; G. P. Burpee of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Vancouver; J. J. Forster, Canadian Pacific Steamships, Vancouver; Angus F. Chilton, superintendent of the Gray Line, Victoria; Captain W. Merston, Victoria, representing the Vancouver Island Hotel-keepers' Association; Ivan Beecroft, contact man of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau; Ivor W. Neill, member of the Vancouver Board of Trade; R. A. Hutchison of the Greater Vancouver Tourist Association and the Vancouver Automobile Club; Dr. G. H. Worthington, Vancouver, president of the Evergreen Playground Association, and G. McNicholl, Vancouver, Canadian National Railways representative.

Mr. Rowebottom was appointed chairman of one of the principal of the seven general committees into which the congress was divided — that on automobile travel.

In addition to endorsing the Alaska Highway plan, the congress passed a mass of resolutions, most calling for simplification of passport and immigration regulations for travelers between the nations of both continents.

While in San Francisco Mr. Warren spoke on a special broadcast over a coast-to-coast hook-up with Ruth Jennings Bryan Owen, former United States Minister to Norway, and Elmer E. Jenkins, manager of the touring department of the American Automobile Association. Mr. Warren spoke for seven minutes, stressing the value of travel in promoting international understanding and, through it, peace.

Mr. Warren was highly impressed with the British Columbia Exhibit on Treasure Island, which, he said, was a credit to the province and the value of which was proved by the fact that it was continually packed with visitors. He said the murals in the exhibit were the finest in the whole fair and the provincial constables on duty there were the only officially uniformed body of men in the whole exposition.

On their way back to Victoria, Mr. Rowebottom and Mr. Warren attended the semi-annual meeting of the Oregon Coast Highway Association, held at Gold Beach, Oregon, Mr. Rowebottom shared the honor of being principal speaker at the meeting with Governor Charles Sprague of Oregon.

Threat of Total U.S. Coal Shutdown

NEW YORK (AP) — Prospects of a national shutdown in the coal industry next week grew more threatening today as negotiators reported no progress toward agreement on either a bituminous or anthracite contract.

More than 330,000 miners in eight states have been idle since the two-year basic Appalachian soft coal agreement expired March 31.

The three-year hard coal contract, covering 100,000 Pennsylvania anthracite miners, will expire at midnight Sunday.

Dogs are banned entirely from Britain's new "luxury" trains.

Choral Union Is Impressive

First Performance of Vaughan Williams' Festival Work Given Here

By G. J. D.

Three important vocal works were presented by the Victoria Choral and Orchestral Union in its recital at the Cathedral yesterday evening. These were Mozart's last work, his Requiem Mass. Parry's "Blest Pair of Sirens" (to Milton's verse) and Vaughan Williams' "Dona Nobis Pacem" (set to the verse of Walt Whitman and John Bright, and from Holy Writ).

In these nearly a century and a half divides the Mozart from that of one of England's foremost composers of present day, and nearly a period of 100 years from Mozart to the work of Parry, a favorite composer of the Victorian period (1791, 1887, 1937).

The evening's proceedings included one of the famous organ concertos of George Frederic Handel, the G Minor, written in the later years of the composer, about 1740, and played by him as interludes in his oratrios.

This had skill and dexterity in treatment at the hands of Edgar Holloway, who, together with a string orchestra and tympani, led by Selma Reyes, satisfactorily supplied the accompaniment to the concerto and to the three vocal compositions.

Only genius can write untiringly a repetition of 35 bars as a string accompaniment while the solo organ proceeds with the unfolding of rippling, lace-like passages. Handel did this in the second movement, and its performance was an unusually arresting one.

Local musical people must feel grateful to Mr. Bulley and the Choral Union in the admirable first performance of the Vaughan Williams' work, written for and produced at the Huddersfield Festival in 1936. "Dona Nobis Pacem" has all the urgency of a deeply felt prayer for peace, and the text suggests all the horrors of strife and none of the glories of war.

After an impressingly simple introduction, with soprano solo by Dorothy Parsons, who sang with extraordinary sympathy, there is ample suggestion of tumult and dread in the clashing harmonies of an energetic section based on "Beat, Beat, Drums." The andante, "Reconciliation," has pathos and beauty. Tragedy is implied in the "Dirge for Two Veterans," the work ending in a veritable paean of good will after the famous lines of John Bright, "The Angel of Death Has Been Abroad," have been delivered poignantly as a baritone solo by Philip Watts. The impression was given in its strongly rhythmic intensity, which found Mr. Bulley alert, and his vocal and instrumental forces readily responsive, that "Dona Nobis Pacem" might well enter the permanent repertoire as a solemn work for future special occasions.

Mozart's "Requiem" opened and Parry's delightful choral excerpt, "Blest Pair of Sirens," closed the program. In the first it was thought the opening stanzas lacked devotional feeling and religious sentiment, which, however, as the work proceeded, seemed to gather the greater character of a sacred composition, undoubtedly one of the most sublime of all contributions to church music, especially in Lacrymosa, the Benedictus, and in the Agnus Dei, in the last of which the choir rose to its greatest heights of choralism. The work contains four lovely quartettes, for which were chosen Dorothy Parsons, Kathleen Barraclough, Dudley Wickett and Philip Watts, the two short opening and closing solos being entrusted to Miss Parsons, who sang them with thoughtful expression.

In the closing Parry work the choir seemed on safer ground, and entered into the spirit of the composition with good results, in spite of a tendency to hurry. The members of the union must be congratulated in their long preparation and enthusiasm displayed in a noteworthy evening's performance.

Child-beating Is Investigated

A report of a 26-year-old father beating his 22-months and nine-months-old children was investigated by city police last night on complaint of the man's mother-in-law and his wife.

On receipt of the complaint, Miss Alice Pye, policematron, accompanied the wife to her home, where examination of the children showed bruises on their bodies. Under police supervision the mother and children were taken to the home of the wife's mother.

Germans Accuse Poles

BERLIN (AP)—DNB, the official German news agency, under a Gleiwitz date, reported today new incidents it said were directed against Germans living in Polish Upper Silesia.

Twenty Poles at Katowice, DNB said, stoned the apartment of a German last night, breaking windows and furniture and injuring the resident's son and daughter severely.

Police intervened once, the agency reported, but the attackers returned later and did more damage.

44,102 Dominion Employees

OTTAWA (CP) — At March 31, 1938, 44,102 persons were employed by the federal government, it was shown in a return tabled in the House of Commons yesterday. There were 32,263 permanent employees and 11,839 classified as temporary. With 12,122 employees, the Post Office department topped the list.

Walter Luney Is Head of Rotary

Will Succeed G. Hamilton Harman in Office; Four Directors Named

Walter Luney was elected president of the Rotary Club for the coming year at the weekly luncheon meeting held in the Empress Hotel today. He will succeed G. Hamilton Harman.

WALTER LUNEY

In addition to electing a president, the club named four directors as follows: J. A. McKay, G. A. Yardley, P. E. Corcoran and A. C. Lindsay.

The entertainment for the luncheon included motion pictures and a brief talk by J. C. Pendray on his recent trip to Mexico, and acts from the Polack Bros.' Circus, being presented at the Willows this week by the Gizeh Temple Shrine Band.

Art Freeman gave a clever performance of hand balancing, using a table and chair. The climax to the act was a hand balance on a chair standing on three soda pop bottles on top of the table.

The Three Byrons, members of the Six Macks, who perform every evening at the Willows, gave a comedy tumbling act which was loudly applauded.

H. C. Oldfield and Joe Adam were introduced as new members. Mr. Harman presided.

Launch Move to Stop Vandalism

Parks Chairman Seeks Public Support to Halt Destruction

An appeal to the public generally to assist the city parks committee in maintaining the beauty and usefulness of city parks was voiced today by Alderman S. H. Okell, committee chairman, following discussion at yesterday's committee meeting of vandalism in the parks.

Alderman Okell reported swings had been broken in Central Park, benches overturned and damaged in other locations and glass shattered in the Kiwanis Shelter at Beacon Hill.

Police have been informed of the depredations of the hoodlums who are causing such damage, and the citizens are requested to communicate with the authorities when such wilful destruction comes to their notice. Drastic action will be taken against perpetrators of such mischief.

Coupled with the move to stop destruction of property, Alderman Okell requested the public to observe regulations prohibiting picking of wild flowers in city parks, not only within the boundaries of Victoria, but also at Elk Lake and other tracts improved by the city.

Informed that full precautions would be taken to protect the general public from injury, the committee decided to allow use of that section of Beacon Hill south of the deer pen by the Victoria Archers as an outdoor range.

The committee favored use of the upper Beacon Hill ground for baseball, and sought a report from the comptroller on public liability in connection with games that might be played there.

Paper Gives Vancouver Parliament Buildings

A news picture service in the United States is the object of intense and righteous indignation on the part of the Victoria and Island Pubilicty Bureau at present.

The bureau this morning received a clipping of a syndicated picture layout printed in a California paper with Victoria's pride and joy—the Inner Harbor and the Parliament Buildings—given the place of honor in the centre.

The caption read: "The Parliament Buildings in the beautiful city of Vancouver, British Columbia."

Lynn Patrick and Bride Home Today

Accompanied by his bride of two and a half weeks, Lynn Patrick arrived in town this afternoon to see tonight's game of the Dominion basketball finals between Victoria Dominoes and Windsor Alumni.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick drove 4,000 miles to Victoria from Miami, Florida, just to see tonight's game. "So those Dominoes better win," added Lynn.

They had intended to stay two or three weeks honeymooning in Miami, but during his stay there Lynn saw a Montreal paper in which the dates for the series was announced and next day started home.

Review Work Of Baptists

Progress Reported in Mission Field at Church Session Here

Reports on the excellent progress being made in the missionary field by the church featured the annual spring gathering of the Vancouver Island Baptist Association in the Douglas Street Baptist Church yesterday afternoon and evening.

Reporting on the different aspects of their work, as outlined in the book "Moving Millions," represetatives of various mission groups sketched advances made in India through kindness, sympathy and service, including educational and medical attention. The work was being supported enthusiastically by all provinces of Canada as well as United States centres. To indicate the strides being made in the field it was reported groups on this continent had shown vast increases in membership, in some cases the number showing active interest in the field being double that of last year.

Methods were discussed by which more women could be encouraged to take a more active part in the activities of the church along that line.

Mrs. W. P. Freeman occupied the chair for the discussion.

Particular attention was given by the men's division to a move to form fellowship groups in which men and boys would reach a more sympathetic understanding. Rev. G. A. Reynolds presided at that session.

Keen interest was shown in the worship service during which members of the Emmanuel Young People's Association, assisted by Douglas Street and First Church groups, devoted their considerations to the inspiration provided by the life of Fanny Crosby, blind hymn writer.

Miss Vivian Bushby reviewed the achievements of the noted figure and several of her hymns were presented.

Speaking in the evening on "How Far Do We Trust God?" Volney C. Irons, Vancouver, stressed the importance of seeking Divine guidance in pursuing everyday undertakings instead of rushing without plan into the tasks confronting the individual.

He spoke of the faith of Abraham to illustrate his point and called upon his hearers to listen for Divine guidance.

The general session was convened by Frank Humphrey, president. Rev. F. W. McKinnon, assisted by Rev. G. A. Reynolds, conducted the opening song and devotional period. Mrs. O. M. Brown was in charge of a demonstration of East Indian and Japanese work presented by children of those nationalities.

During the supper and fellowship hour, in the church hall, an invitation was received from Chemainus to delegates to attend the church gathering at the up-island centre during the fall.

The gathering was drawn to a close with a benediction pronounced by George F. Waites, deacon at Emmanuel Baptist Church.

Health Commission Staff Reduced

As the result of a reduction in the government's vote for upkeep of the health insurance commission, effective with the new fiancial year, a further cut in the commission's staff has been made, it was learned today.

Two members of the clerical staff were dismissed this month, leaving only one appointee, H. B. Garland, with the board.

The commission, consisting of Dr. Allon Peebles, chairman, Dr. W. T. Barrett, vice-chairman, Percy Bengough and John Dunsmuir, remains in office. The members were engaged on seven-year contracts.

The government's vote for the commission was reduced from $25,000 to $15,000 this year.

Kangaroos, lizards, seals and snakes are hunted primarily for their skins, not for meat.

New Zealand Forest Head Here

Hon. Frank Langstone Studies Forestry Methods On Coast

New Zealand is seriously concerned with the rebuilding of its denuded forest areas and the management of forests to provide a perpetual crop, according to Hon. Frank Langstone, Minister of Lands for the southern Dominion, who is visiting Victoria today with Mrs. Langstone.

"A nation that neglects its forests is heading for serious trouble," Mr. Langstone said in an interview this morning.

On his way to Geneva to represent New Zealand at the International Labor Organization meeting in June, Mr. Langstone is spending some time studying logging methods and forestry management on the Pacific Coast. He has just visited California, Washington and Oregon. Tomorrow he will go up to Alberni, accompanied by C. D. Orchard, assistant chief forester of B.C. Mr. and Mrs. Langstone were entertained at luncheon by Hon. A. Wells Gray, B.C. Minister of Lands.

Like many other countries, he said, New Zealand used the "axe and the firestick with abandon" on its forests and was now reaping the result in serious problems.

Not only had forests stocks been lowered but soil erosion and other action that followed the logging brought rushing floods each year that damaged roads, bridges and farm lands to the extent of tens of thousands of pounds annually.

New Zealand has been planting imported varieties for 37 years and is now working on a five-year program that calls for planting 85,000 acres.

While the government does not exercise any control over private logging the state forests are carefully managed, he said.

Logging is done on a selective basis and the logs sold to millmen at the roadside. Only the trees that are mature are taken out.

Mr. Langstone is also in charge of tourist publicity for New Zealand. For years the country has carried on an active campaign and it shows excellent results, he said. It maintained publicity officers in Toronto and Los Angeles. This year New Zealand has exhibits at both the San Francisco and the New York world fairs. Mr. Langstone has visited Treasure Island and will go to New York when he reaches the east.

Touching on trade between Canada and New Zealand he noted that the balance is heavily in Canada's favor.

"We would like to see this evened up, of course, but by an expansion of trade, not by any restrictions on our part," he said.

Italy Watches Britain

ROME (AP) — The Fascist press twitted Great Britain for resorting to conscription, but there were indications today the government was giving serious attention to effects of this action on the German European situation.

Some press articles adopted a tone of satisfaction that fear of Italy and Germany had compelled Britain to make her youth undergo military service.

The famous Inglenook Gardens, which Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waddell have thrown open to the public for the last eight years, are at present at the height of their spring-time beauty. Special attractions are huge pansies and masses of polyanthas and primroses. The Waddell home is on Maplewood Road, reached from North Quadra Street.

British Policy Switch Defended

LONDON (CP) — Defending himself against Labor charges that the government had broken its pledge not to introduce conscription in peacetime, Prime Minister Chamberlain said in the House of Commons today:

"On those two occasions (when he opposed conscription) conditions were very different from what they are today. On neither was war imminent, and there was no question present to the minds of anybody at that time which appeared then likely to lead to war."

The government had intended to maintain the voluntary system as recently as last month, Mr. Chamberlain said, recalling he had made a statement to that effect to Labor Leader Attlee, March 29.

"Since then I have changed my mind. Today we no longer believe the needs of the country can be met by a voluntary system if that system is to stand alone."

Ready for Conscripts

LONDON (CP) — The first batch of Britain's conscripts, expected to number 200,000, will find uniforms and equipment ready for them. It is understood sufficient equipment already is stored for them in depots through the country.

Baird, Mrs. G. Arlow and Mrs. H. V. Wilkinson, all of this city; also 27 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.
The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon from McCall Bros.' Funeral Home at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot in Colwood Burial Park.

RENFREW—At Royal Jubilee Hospital on Wednesday, April 26, Isabella Renfrew, aged 64 years, wife of Thomas Renfrew, of 1426 Walnut Street. The late Mrs. Renfrew was born in County Antrim, Ireland, and had been a resident of this city for the last 41 years. Besides her husband, she is mourned by a sister in County Antrim, Ireland.
The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon from McCall Bros.' Funeral Home at 3.30 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot in Colwood Burial Park.

JOHNSTONE—Passed away in Victoria, April 25, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnstone, aged 61 years, a native of Scotland; a former resident of Moose Jaw, Sask., for many years. She is survived by one son, John, of Vancouver, and one daughter, Miss Lillian Gertrude, residing in Moose Jaw.
The remains were forwarded last night to Vancouver by the Thomson Funeral Home, where the funeral and interment will take place.
(Regina and Moose Jaw papers please copy.)

ELLIOTT—Passed away on April 26, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Mrs. Margaret Ann Elliott, aged 75 years, a native of Ontario and a resident of Victoria for six months; late residence, Beverley Hotel. She leaves in sorrow her husband, William L. Elliott, and one sister, Miss Mary Pye, in Victoria; one sister, Miss Jean Pye, residing in London, Ont.; two brothers, Thomas Pye of Walkerton, Ont., and James Pye of Vancouver, B.C.
The remains are resting at the Thomson Funeral Home, and will be taken to Lacombe, Alta., where the funeral will take place and interment be made.
(Calgary papers please copy.)

WILSON—There passed away Wednesday afternoon, after a very short illness at the St. James Hotel, Jessie Walker Wilson. The late Miss Wilson was born in Kilmarnock, Scotland, and had resided in this city for the last 15 years. She is survived by one sister, Miss Mary Wilson, and a brother, James, in Calgary, also four nieces in this city.
The remains are resting at the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home pending the arrival of Mr. and Miss Wilson from Calgary, at which time the announcement of funeral services will be made.

PENGELLEY—There passed away on April 26, William Denny Pengelley, in his 23rd year, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis F. Pengelley of 2547 Prior Street.
Private funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon in McCall Bros.' Funeral Chapel at 3.30 o'clock. Interment will be in Colwood Burial Park.

ANNOUNCEMENTS (Continued)

IN MEMORAM

CLARKE—In ever loving memory of our dear son and brother, Francis John (Johnnie) Clarke, who passed away April 27, 1938, aged 25 years.
Oh for the touch of a vanished hand
And the sound of a voice that is still.
A dear son and brother, true and kind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
—Inserted by mother, dad, sisters and brothers.

Oak Bay Shows 'South Riding'

Korda Production Entertaining Story Of Yorkshire Life

"South Riding," showing today at the Oak Bay Theatre, is one of the most entertaining dramas ever made by a British studio. For this credit must go to Victor Saville, who produced and directed for Alexander Korda.

Based on the famous Winifred Holtby novel, "South Riding" tells a vivid story of life in a Yorkshire town. The main characters are played by a strong cast headed by Ralph Richardson, Edna Best, Edmund Gwenn, Ann Todd, Marie Lohr and John Clements.

Richardson has easily the best role of his screen career as Squire Carne, tragically burdened by poverty and a demented wife. On the local council he stands for the old order of things, clashing with Astell (John Clements), a conscientious reformer, bent on putting through his housing scheme.

'Rio Grande' On Columbia Bill

Charles Starrett in Western Production With Ann Doran

Adventure gallops to roaring tunes as "Rio Grande" thunders across the screen with the tumult of a thousand thrills at the Columbia Theatre.

Charles Starrett's latest Columbia production, with Ann Doran as his leading lady and the Sons of the Pioneers, provides sweet range music in sharp contrast to bullet-smashing action. Dick Curtis, Hank Bell, Bob Nolan and other well-known western players appear in prominent supporting roles.

"Rio Grande" was directed by Sam Nelson, from a screenplay by Charles Francis Royal.

'Pygmalion' at Capitol Friday

"Pygmalion," the first of famed George Bernard Shaw's plays to be converted to the movies," will be shown at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow.

Brilliant acting by Leslie Howard, Wendy Hiller and Wilfrid Lawson add lustre to Shaw's sparkling lines, and the preview audience left with high praise for the production which will feature the Capitol bill this week.

The Cinderella story firmly seizes the imagination from the opening shot and sweeps on in a crescendo of dramatic force in which action is balanced against witty dialogue and situations against moments of drama.

Doyle Thriller At Dominion

Darryl F. Zanuck has brought to the screen Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's great detective thriller, "The Hound of the Baskervilles," for 20th Century-Fox.

Richard Greene, Basil Rathbone and Wendy Barrie share top billing in the famous Sherlock Holmes story, which comes to the Dominion Theatre tomorrow. Rathbone proves the perfect choice for the celluloid reincarnation of the greatest of all fictional detectives; Green justifies Zanuck's faith in him by doing a great piece of acting as young Sir Henry Baskerville, and lovely Miss Barrie is superb as Sir Henry's sweetheart, Beryl.

'Stagecoach' to Show at Plaza

When present-day train and automobile travelers speed along the main routes between the mid-western states and the Pacific coast, they follow the trails laid out many years ago by the buffalo and the stagecoaches. A portion of these historic routes through Arizona and New Mexico is shown in "Stagecoach," a United Artists release starring Claire Trevor and John Wayne, which comes to the Plaza Theatre on Monday.

The primitive locale of this fast-moving frontier drama forms a unique setting in which Director John Ford has directed a large cast made up of Andy Devine, John Carradine, Thomas Mitchell, Louise Platt, George Bancroft, Tim Holt and Berton Churchill.

CAPITOL THEATRE

With a universal appeal to old and young and every type of movie fan, "The Mikado," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is a rare treat in sight and sound. Filmed in technicolor, the richness of the costumes and the Oriental settings and backgrounds constitute a rare feast of coloring and beauty. Members and principals of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company are included in a cast of thousands who take part in this striking musical production with Kenny Baker in the singing role of Nanki Poo. The London Symphony Orchestra provides the musical background and accompaniment for the delightful and familiar popular songs and choruses.

Royal Ship Known Here

Ss. Empress of Australia Formerly Operated in Victoria-Orient Service

The ship which has been selected to carry the King and Queen across the Atlantic on their visit to Canada next month, Ss. Empress of Australia, is well-known to Victorians, having been operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway some years ago between here and the Orient.

It was on September 1, 1923, that the name Empress of Australia was emblazoned throughout the world as the ship which saved the lives of thousands of refugees rendered homeless by the great earthquake which wrecked Tokio and Yokohama.

The Empress of Australia was lying alongside her wharf in Yokohama harbor when the city was rocked to its foundations by the great quake, causing tremendous loss of life and demolishing the greater part of those cities.

Capt. Samuel Robinson, R.N.R., who has since retired from the C.P.R. service, was then in command of the Empress of Australia. He was the hero of the quake and his cool action saved many lives.

After loading his ship with refugees, Capt. Robinson backed the Empress of Australia out into the harbor as the wharf at which she had been tied up collapsed. Later the Empress of Australia brought the first shipload of refugees from Japan to Victoria.

Built as the Tirpitz, the Empress of Australia, a vessel of 21,833 registered tons, was launched in 1914 at the Vulcan plant at Stettin, Germany.

She was one of the vessels of the German merchant marine turned over to the Allies after the Great War.

She was first operated by the C.P.R. in the trans-Atlantic service, and then, when the Empress of Canada was sent to England to be re-engined, the Empress of Australia was brought to the Pacific and used in the Orient trade.

Since her return to the Atlantic she has been operating between Southampton and Quebec, and as a winter cruise ship to the Mediterranean.

The Imperial suite, which was designed for the use of the German Kaiser, is still intact and will probably be used by Their Majesties on the Atlantic crossing. The liner is equipped with a magnificent dining saloon and luxurious suites.

The ship has just been completely renovated and was scheduled to inaugurate the seasonal Quebec service May 17.

It is understood that the Empress of Australia will carry her regular personnel, with the addition of a naval staff.

BEATTY PLEASED AUSTRALIA USED

MONTREAL (CP) — Sir Edward Beatty, chairman of Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited, made public the following statement today after Prime Minister Chamberlain had announced the King and Queen would travel to Canada in the liner Empress of Australia instead of aboard the battlecruiser Repulse.

"While deeply regretting the underlying causes that have brought about a change of plans, we of the Canadian Pacific are naturally very greatly pleased by the announcement that their Majesties will journey to Canada in one of our own ships. It is a very great honor, and I am sure that Canadians everywhere will feel a little thrill of pride and gratification as they read the news.

"The Empress of Australia is a fine ship, splendidly manned, and has built up a very creditable record under the Canadian Pacific houseflag, and I am sure that on this occasion she will acquit herself in a manner for which we will have reason to be proud."

Special Fares to Okanagan Valley

To facilitate travel to the Okanagan from the Pacific coast, special bargain fares have been arranged by the Canadian Pacific Railway, good from Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and New Westminster May 12.

Tiickets at low rates are good May 12 either on the 10 a.m. or 7.15 p.m. train out of Vancouver to main line and Okanagan Valley points via Sicamous, on the 7.45 p.m. train only for those wishing to go via the Kettle Valley through Spences Bridge, Merritt and Brookmere.

From Vancouver Island, blossom time excursions can connect with any of the above trains.

Each ticket carries a return limit to leave destination not later than May 15, although passengers from points between Kirton and Spences Bridge inclusive, may return on train No. 11, May 16.

Capt. Ben Pine Through

HALIFAX (CP) — There will be no more schooner racing for Capt. Ben Pine. The veteran Gloucester, Mass., skipper, whose Gertrude L. Thebaud is the only schooner to have trimmed Nova Scotia's Bluenose in a series, said here last night his racing days are over.

Pine said of international racing: "I'm getting along and I'll let someone else take my place. There's too much expense, too much work and trouble to schooner racing nowadays."

Here's a smart traveller. She parks her car and goes on THE CONTINENTAL LIMITED. Complete air-conditioning banishes soot, dust and draughts. Adjustable reclining seats in the new day coaches give extra comfort and relaxation when you travel on low-cost tickets. Be modern. Go by train!

The Continental Limited is the DIRECT route via Jasper, Edmonton, Saskatoon. Leaves Vancouver 7.15 p.m. daily for the East.

Around the Docks

MODAVIA UNLOADS HEAVY FRUIT CARGO

Making port at 9.30 last night from Glasgow via Los Angeles, Ms. Modavia, of the Donaldson Line, spent most of today discharging the largest single consignment of citrus fruits delivered here for some time. The warehouse at Pier 1, Rithet Docks, was unusually busy with a fleet of trucks moving the fruit to the wholesalers as it was trundled by longshoremen from the ship's slings.

The Modavia brought in over 500 tons of cargo for Victoria this trip, including 325 tons of oranges, lemons and grapefruit from southern California, as well as fresh vegetable shipments.

At Guayaquil the Donaldson vessel loaded 4,000 stems of bananas for British Columbia, including 750 stems for Victoria.

As the cargo was being unloaded here, a shipment of 1,150 cases of canned loganberries from Saanich was taken aboard for delivery in London.

Capt. J. McMillan, formerly of Ss. Parthenia, was in command of the Modavia, succeeding Capt. W. E. Mitchell, who is on leave. The Modavia was posted to sail about 5 this afternoon for Vancouver.

Bound to South Africa

Ss. King James, under charter to the North Pacific Shipping Co. Ltd. for South African delivery, arrived at the Canadian National docks at 11 last night from the Fraser River. She commenced loading 500,000 feet of lumber this morning.

Ss. Moorby is due to complete with 1,000,000 feet here late today or tomorrow and will clear for Vancouver.

Destroyers in Early

The four destroyers composing Canada's Pacific coast fleet, H.M.C.S. Ottawa, Fraser, St. Laurent and Restigouche, will return to Esquimalt early tomorrow from the British West Indies. They are scheduled to arrive at Esquimalt at 7.45 in the morning.

The Ottawa and St. Laurent will go alongside the dockyard jetty, the Restigouche will tie up outside the ordnance wharf and the Fraser will go to the refitting basin.

Relatives and friends of the ships' personnel will be permitted to enter the dockyard.

Lochavon Saturday

Bound here from Rotterdam and London, Ms. Lochavon sailed from San Francisco at 10 last night and will reach Victoria to start unloading cargo at 8 Saturday morning, according to word received by Adam P. Moffat and Partners Limited, general agents for the Royal Mail and Holland-America Line joint service.

The Lochavon will go alongside the Canadian National docks at Ogden Point to discharge 200 tons of general and load 150 tons of frozen salmon, doors and cooperage stock.

The British motorship has three tourists for Victoria and eight for Vancouver.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Bullish crop news from the United States winter wheat belt, together with an export business in Canadian wheat estimated at nearly 750,000 bushels and continued uneasiness regarding European political conditions, today brought small gains to Winnipeg wheat futures prices. Quotations at the close were ½ to ⅝ cent higher, May at 62⅜, July 63⅜ to 63½ and October 64½ to 64⅝.

Trading was rather brisk as moderate offerings were well absorbed by good support from southern houses, seaboard interests and mills.

Export business appeared to reflect in the cash wheat market where good sales of Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4 northern were reported. Exporters and mills offered a little support to both barley and oats in the coarse grains pit.

Liverpool finished ⅛d lower to ⅛d up. Chicago scored appreciable gains while Buenos Aires was unchanged to ⅛ cent off most of the session.

Winnipeg

Wheat—	Bid	Offer
May	61-7	63-1
July	63	64-2
October	61-7	..

CHICAGO (AP)—All wheat futures contracts sold above 70 cents a bushel today, highest since January, as the market advanced a cent in the final hour due to increased buying inspired by fear of more serious winter wheat deterioration.

There was a good international trade, although no domestic export business could be confirmed. Short covering and purchasing by eastern and southwest interests stimulated the price rally. Pit brokers said there were unconfirmed reports of the spread of crop damage northward into Nebraska.

Wheat closed ½ to 1⅛ higher than yesterday, May 70⅞ to 70¾, July 70⅜ to 70¼; corn unchanged to ⅜ lower, May 48⅛ to 48¼, July 50 to 49⅞; oats ⅛ to ¼ higher.

Final Rally Holds Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Last-minute buying in General Motors and Chrysler, combined with strength of aircrafts throughout, gave the stock market a final lift today.

Early gains running to two points were cut down or erased after midday. The belated comeback, however, enabled a number of favorites to close near their best levels.

Prices and activity were best in the first hour. Volume dwindled thereafter, with transfers approximating 500,000 shares.

Securities at London, Amsterdam and Paris were unable to get out of a rut. Bonds and commodities were mixed.

Stocks receiving support included Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Boeing, Curtiss-Wright "A," Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Bethlehem, Sears-Roebuck, International Harvester and Texas Corp.

Lacking rising vitality were U.S. Steel, American Telephone, Sante Fe, Du Pont, U.S. Rubber and Consolidated Edison.

Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:

30 industrials 129.78, up 1.22

20 rails 26.03, up 0.25

15 utilities 22.34, up 0.19

40 bonds 88.02, off 0.05

Total sales, 540,000.

HEDLEY HARD HIT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liquidation of shares of Hedley Mascot Gold Mines featured trading on an otherwise dull forenoon session of Vancouver Stock Exchange today. Oils and base metals were quiet and transactions totaled 41,140 shares.

A rumor in financial circles that the Mascot Company had run into a poor grade of ore sent the stock down 19 cents from Wednesday's close.

From an opening at 95 the stock went up to 97 about mid-session, but slipped gradually lower for a forenoon close at 90. More than 21,000 shares of the stock changed hands. Bralorne Gold dropped 5 cents to 10.50, and Kootenay Belle dipped 2 to 1.20. Sheep Creek was off 1 at 1.06, while Cariboo Gold Quartz at 2.15, Premier at 1.88 and Privateer at 1.06 remained unchanged.

Anglo Canadian oil was off 1 at 93 and Calgary and Edmonton held even at 2.00. Other leading issues were inactive.

Pend Oreille was 5 cents lower at 1.35 and remaining base metals were quiet.

Men Who Build Houses

9—MILLWORK AND TILES

Carpenters of the present day seldom make doors or windows for new houses. This work is done by millwork companies, and more often than not the companies do their work in another city—perhaps a place more than 100 miles distant.

A tile man at work.

We might suppose there would be trouble in getting the doors and windows to fit, and there may be such trouble. Yet the architect takes pains with his drawings, and the millwork company sends a man to measure the openings left by the carpenters. In this way the company learns the size, perhaps down to an eighth of an inch. Later the carpenters work to bring about an exact fit.

In addition, the millwork company is likely to build kitchen cupboards for the new house, and perhaps wardrobes, window seats and bookcases as well. People should not forget built-in bookcases—such cases provide a neat and solid home for the family's library. We may save some money by not having too much "show" in our new house, and can use the saving for things which count more. Good books open new worlds to people who may read at their own fireside.

Big trucks bring the millwork to the side of the new home. The millwork is not delivered all at once, but load by load, on different days and weeks, as the carpenters come to be ready for it.

Meanwhile the tile man is busy working on the bathroom floors and walls. In these days, a good-sized house is seldom built with less than two bathrooms, and there may be from three to five bathrooms.

First class hotels have "a bath with every room." We may ask, "Why not a bath with every bedroom in a new home?" The answer isn't hard to find—it's a question of expense. Yet it seems a good idea, and if we use showers instead of tubs, the bathrooms do not cost quite so much.

Ready-made shower stalls, with porcelain sides, are on the market. At present they cost something like $70 apiece, and if their use grows the price may go down a great deal.

If we do not use such stalls, the tile man will line the walls around each shower with tiles, perhaps to a height of six feet. He may also cover the bathroom floors and walls with tiles. In some houses, a less costly coating —linoleum—is used.

Bathroom tiles are thin pieces of clay which have been "fired" in certain ways. Some of them, but not all, are glazed until they are glossy.

Tiles have been used for thousands of years. They were known in ancient Babylonia. They have been used in laying the floors of many churches in Europe, and colored tiles have been used to make interesting designs.

Roof tiles, made of stone or other material, are common in England and some other countries.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"Just like your father was. You grumble about dressing up, and then start struttin' like a peacock when you get out with the girls."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a boy 14 years old and am in love with a woman who has been married and divorced and has a child. She is a cigarette girl in a night club. My family is wealthy and it objects to me marrying her. The man who tutors me privately says no woman who is worth while would marry a boy of my age, since she is older and more experienced. Also, that the best punishment that any one could wish on me for my folly would be to marry her. Can a mature woman love a boy of 14? Does it make any difference because she is poor and a cigarette girl and I am rich? Is my tutor right in saying that the right sort of a woman would not marry me at 14, and that she must have some reason other than pure love for being willing to marry me?

UNDECIDED LAD.

Answer: Listen, son, don't you ever read the newspapers? If you do, you must have read hundreds of times of the sordid messy scandals in which rich men's sons get themselves when they fall in the toils of the gold-digging sisterhood. That fate will befall you unless you listen to your parents and your tutor and give up this woman who is trying to play you for a good thing. Think how you would like it to be smeared across the front page of all the newspapers and have people laugh and sneer at you as not only a golden goose that was easily plucked, but a poor little gosling who lost its pin feathers.

You cannot learn too soon that one of the penalties of wealth is to set every unprincipled woman with whom a man comes in contact upon him with intent to rob him. The hardest job you will ever have to do is to protect yourself against such harpies. You will have to watch your step or one of them will marry you. You will have to watch your speech or one of them will blackmail you. You can't even write a postal card without danger of being sued for breach of promise.

DOROTHY DIX.

HOROSCOPE

Friday, April 28, 1939

Astrologers announce this as an unimportant day in planetary government. Adverse aspects, however, appear to dominate. It is a time for careful procedure.

Labor is subject to a sway threatening to the peace of at least one great industry. Co-operation is recommended as the stars presage cause for patriotic unity.

There is a sign forecasting supreme benefits through readjustments in economic and social relations. Understanding of differing points of view is indicated.

Under this rule of the stars accidents may be many. Despite warnings and safety regulations the roll of summer fatalities is to be great, if the portents are rightly interpreted.

Again the sign supposed to encourage secrecy, deception and double-dealing is discerned. The inclination for individuals and nations to maintain a selfish point of view will be strong, but it is imperative that the ideal of general welfare be maintained.

The evening is inauspicious for speech-making, which may strike wrong keynotes. The stars stimulate criticism and will assure reverberations in press and on the radio.

The sudden death of a distinguished statesman who has been a champion of the people's rights is prognosticated. Illness due to fatigue is prophesied for men and women who carry heavy responsibilities.

Improved living conditions for workers is to be a chief concern in cities through the summer. Housing will gain much attention.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of pleasant and uneventful routine. There should be healthful recreation and limited travel for young and old.

Children born on th[illegible] probably will be strong [illegible] and determined in characte[illegible]. These subjects of Taurus know how to make the most of their talents and their opportunities.

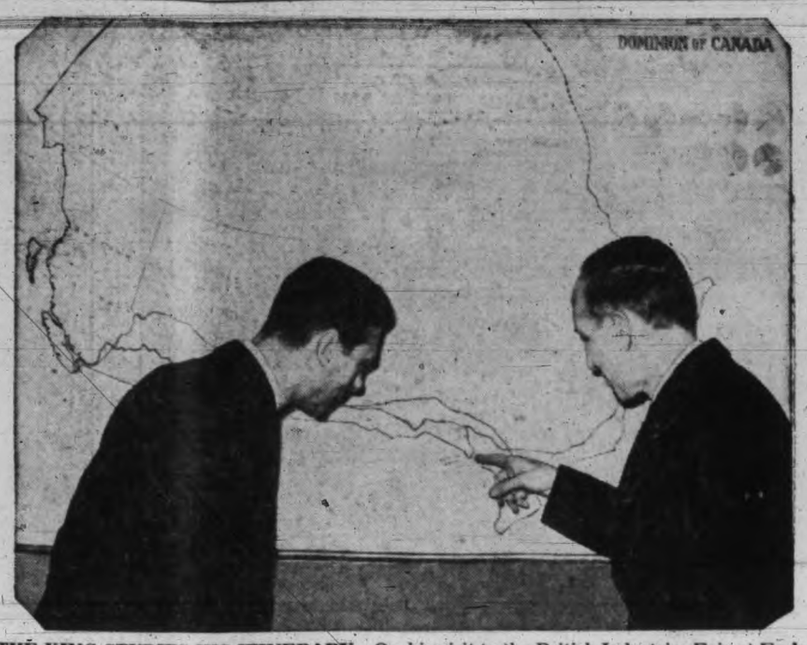
There is no place on earth that is east and no place that is west. It is the direction toward which the earth is turning that is called "east" and the direction from which it is turning that is called "west."

Pacific salmon are the most valuable fish in the western hemisphere.

Canada imports most of her coffee from Brazil, British East Africa, Colombia and Jamaica, with green coffee comprising most of the importations. Grinding, blending and roasting are handled by a Canadian industry.

HAS GROWN 60,000 TULIPS—The above picture shows a section of the three and a half acre picturesque flower farm of Roy Henderson at the end of Helmcken Road, near Portage Inlet. A section of a 60,000-bulb tulip bed is shown, with the varieties—Early Singles, Darwins, Triumphs, Mandels and Clara Butts. Mr. Henderson imported the Triumph variety from Holland and has grown them successfully as an experiment. In addition to the tulips, there are 100,000 iris on the farm. Visitors are invited to view this beautiful scene.



THE KING STUDIES HIS ITINERARY.—On his visit to the British Industries Fair at Earls Court, London, a few days ago, he spent some time examining a map of Canada on which was marked the route of the tour which he and the Queen will make this spring. Shown with him in the picture is Hon. Vincent Massey (right), High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain, who is pointing out to His Majesty the City of Sault Ste. Marie, where plans are being made for the city's entire population of 23,000 to travel 196 miles to Franz, the nearest point on the Royal route, to see the King and Queen.

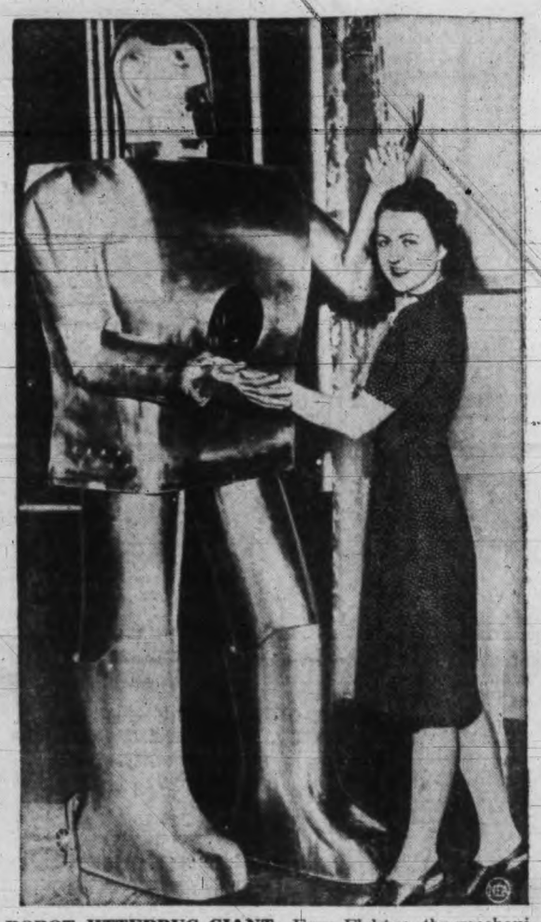
Arms and Feet Swollen With Rheumatism

This woman suffered for many years. Pain sapped her strength until she lost hope of recovery. Many remedies were tried, but nothing broke the grip of her crippling rheumatism. At last her husband persuaded her to try Kruschen Salts:—

"My arms and feet were swollen with rheumatism," she writes. "I could not walk nor get regular sleep, and nothing did me any lasting good. I was so hopeless of ever getting better, I lost my good nature entirely. Then my husband persuaded me to try Kruschen Salts. After two weeks I began to feel better. I persevered, and in six weeks, I was doing housework. Later, I was able to go for a walk. Now I am free from pain and I feel grand." —(Mrs.) F.W.

Rheumatism is commonly caused by deposits of uric acid crystals, which lodge in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to break up these deposits of troubling crystals and to convert them into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.

VISITS SUMMER CAMP FOR BOYS—Nothing gives King George VI more pleasure than the annual trip to the summer camps for boys he established when Duke of York. Donning shorts and running shoes, the King mingles freely, never failing to take a dip in the sea by the camps. Here he is shown in his informal attire chatting with Robert Hyde in charge of the camp at Southwold, Suffolk.



ROBOT JITTERBUG GIANT—Even Elektro, the mechanical man, takes up modern tempo to swing a few steps with Grace Goldsworthy at his debut luncheon in Pittsburgh, Pa. Creation of the Westinghouse Co., Elektro can walk, talk, distinguish colors and count up to 10.

IRAQ'S MONARCH — King Feisal II, will be four years old on May 2, and he's just as pleased with his new soldier suit as any other lad of that age would be. This recent portrait showing no sign that he feels any of the worries said to attend those whose heads wear crowns. He became King through the death of his father in a motor accident on April 4. His father's brother-in-law Abdul Ilah, will head a regency.

FEMININITY, 1939 — Steel helmet, gas mask, waterproof jacket, and green corduroy trousers — items in the well-dressed English woman's war ensemble—were worn by this girl ambulance driver at a recent London home defence demonstration.

For Comfort and Convenience in that New House . . . an Extra Telephone

When you are moving into a new home, one of the things to put on your "must" list is an extension telephone. You'll find it is one of the essentials if you want complete comfort and convenience. If you have a two-storey house, a good place to have the extra telephone is upstairs, probably at your bedside. Other places where an extension telephone would be handy are in the kitchen or down in the basement. The installation charge is only $1.
